Rules On Drug Test Use Will Be Tightened

Celebrezze Says New Regulations To Be Issued Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anthony J. Celebrezze, new secretary of health, education and welfare, said Thursday he planned to issue soon tighter regulations covering test use on humans of such drugs as the baby-deforming thalidomide.

Regulations said to be under consideration include two which notify the Food and Drug Administration when they start testing new drugs, and inform the agency immediately if any injurious side effects show up during tests.

The FDA also may take administrative action to step up policing of physicians supplied with experimental drugs to make sure they have adequate testing facilities and submit meaningful reports to the drug manufacturer.

Beside the possible new regulations, Celebrezze joined President Kennedy in urging Congress to enact new legislative safeguards on use of experiments with drugs. Indications were Congress would act but possibly not go as far as the administration would like.

Celebrezze, who took office only last Tuesday, said he had been conferring with officials of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to see what could be done about speeding up the proposed regulations and expected them to be issued "very soon."

FDA can issue certain regulations effective immediately if they are deemed necessary to protect the public health. However, usual policy is for the regulations to be printed in the federal register, with interested parties being given 30 days to file any complaints. An HEW spokesman indicated this policy would be followed.

Celebrezze said it seemed clear that some tightening up was called for in regulations governing distribution of drugs to physicians for "investigational purposes" before they are put on the market.

Britain Orders Fugitive Spy's Return To U.S.

LONDON (AP)—Britain rejected Dr. Robert A. Soblen's plea for political asylum Thursday and ordered the Soviet spy packed off to the United States.

The 61-year-old psychiatrist was told that he had lost in his race halfway around the world to escape a life sentence in an American prison. Soblen is in a hospital in London's Brixton Prison.

Home Secretary Henry Brooke told the House of Commons there was nothing to justify Soblen's appeal for haven as a political refugee—since he had been convicted of espionage in the court of a democratic country.

He is not in danger of persecution in his own country for his political opinions or on racial grounds," Brooke asserted.

He said the British government was giving directions for flying Soblen back to New York, where he jumped $100,000 bail June 26 and fled to Israel.

The home secretary did not spell out just how—or when—Soblen would be deported.

Soblen landed in England on July 1 just after slashing his wrists and stomach aboard the Israeli El Al Airlines plane flying him to the United States after he had been expelled by Israel. Soblen also suffers from leukemia—cancer of the blood.

Peeping Toms

Phoenix, Ariz., city detectives try to peep as officer stands guard outside the Industrial Commission room in the state capitol annex where five persons were held hostage by Charles E. Milligan, 50. Milligan whipped out a pistol during a hearing yesterday on a back injury he received in June as a construction worker. His lawyer was shot in the leg when he tried to disarm the gunman. The hearing proceeded at gunpoint as police used a telephone to persuade Milligan to come out. (AP Photofax)

Wounds Attorney, Holds Five Hostage

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Police seized pipefitter Charles E. Milligan Thursday night after he had held Arizona Industrial Commission staff members at gunpoint for 12 hours to force a hearing on his claim for disability conpensation. The hostages were freed unharmed.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An unemployed pipefitter held five persons at gunpoint Thursday and conferred by telephone with the attorney he had wounded hours earlier.

The hostages were staff members of the Arizona Industrial Commission who had been holding a hearing on the man's disability claim.

Lawyer Stephen Gorey provided instructions from his hospital bed to Charles E. Milligan, 50, of Tempe, Ariz.

Milligan vowed he wouldn't release his hostages from the hearing room at the state Capitol annex until he completed statements supporting his claim and they had been recorded.

A policeman sat at Gorey's bedside listening while, outside the hearing room, other officers waited for the hearing to break up.

After eight hours there was no indication when this would be. The weird drama began about 8:30 a.m. and was still unfolding at 4:45 p.m. (MST).

The attorney was shot in his left leg as he tried to take away Milligan's revolver at the outset of the incident.

Two detectives posing as newsmen were inside the hearing room but apparently were not being forced to stay there.

An official of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, James Whitt, was permitted to enter and leave the room as a messenger.

Police Sgt. Wesley Mauldin said officers could see into the room through a ventilator well enough to get a shot at Milligan, but feared he might still be able to pull the trigger of his revolver and injure one of the hostages.

"We're just going to sit this guy out," said Mauldin. "We don't want anyone hurt."

Milligan earlier had announced he wanted to talk with a newsman and had refused a police suggestion that a doctor be permitted to enter the room, saying, "I don't need any head-shrinker from the commission."

His attorney's office said Milligan has been seeking additional disability compensation for injuries he suffered while working as a pipefitter at Glen Canyon Dam in northern Arizona.

The office said his compensation had been cut off in mid-March and Thursday's hearing was to consider re-establishing the payments.

Police cleared the area of onlookers, but elsewhere in the four-story building, state employes continued on their jobs.

Witnesses said Gorey, 46, of suburban Scottsdale, was wounded as the men started into the hearing rpom Thursday morning. They said Gorey saw Milligan reach for a gun and was shot in the left leg in an ensuing scuffle.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edgar H. Dixon, 57, one of the central figures in the Dixon-Yates power controversy during the Eisenhower administration, died Thursday.

The president of Middle South Utilities, Inc., was stricken at a hotel Wednesday. He died of a stroke, at a hospital, without regaining consciousness.

A 1955 federal contract with companies headed by Dixon and the late Eugene Yates to furnish power for the Atomic Energy Commission in the Tennesse Valley Authority area touched off a running debate in Congress over public vs. private power.

The contract was never carried out.

Red-Peronist Alliance Reported Taking Shape

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

An Argentine Communist leader has announced—from Moscow—that a Communist alliance with the Peronists is taking shape and that in the near future it will be in a position to raise havoc in Argentina.

This first open admission of such an alliance probably means rising violence is in store for Argentina, whose military-backed regime, with U.S. help, is struggling against heavy odds to get a foundering nation back on its feet.

The disclosure came in a Moscow Spanish-language broadcast by Alfredo Varela, old-time Communist, discussing the Argentine delegation's part in Moscow's recent propaganda show, the so-called World Peace Congress.

Varela explained that many followers of former dictator Juan D. Peron were in the delegation, along with Peronist deputies whose election to congress last March was canceled when the military kicked out President Arturo Frondizi.

The combine will launch an assault on President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress and the present Argentine government, Varela promised, 'as soon as the unshakable union between the workers and the people, based on the alliance of Communists, Peronists and left wing socialists becomes stronger."

This unity," he added, is preparing by means of growing struggle the total liberation of our nation, the carrying out of profound changes in the Argentine economic and social structure."

Jurist Involved In Fix Attempt Gets Two Years

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Vincent Keogh, resigned State Supreme Court justice who was convicted of trying to fix a federal criminal court case, was sentenced Thursday to two years in prison. A dramatic declaration of innocence before God failed to save him.

The short, dapper Keogh, 56, his brilliant Democratic political career ruined by his conviction June 16, arose before sentencing to proclaim: "In the presence of the ever-living God, I swear, maintain and proclaim to this honorable court and through it to the world my innocence of the charge."

However, sentencing U.S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld called Keogh guilty of violating public trust and pronounced the first sentence imposed upon a high-ranking New York jurist since 1940, when the late federal Appeals Judge Martin T. Manton went to prison for selling out his office.

Also sentenced to two years in prison with Keogh were Elliott Kahaner, 36, former chief assistant U.S. attorney in Brooklyn, and labor racketeer Antonio (Tony Ducks) Corallo, 47.

All three are appealing their jury convictions and Judge Weinfeld continued Keogh and Kahaner free without bail to await the outcome. Corallo was released on $25,000 bond.

The three were convicted of a conspiracy to obstruct federal justice, a crime which could have brought them a maximum five years each in prison.

The prosecution said Keogh received $22,500 and Kahaner $12,500—which Corallo helped raise—on a promise to try to gain leniency for Sanford J. Moore, 44, who pleaded guilty last year to concealing assets of his bankrupt Long Island juke box firm.

Target of the pressure for leniency was U.S. Dist. Judge Leo F. Rayfiel of Brooklyn, the sentencing judge in the Moore case. He got wind of the fix and notified the Justice Department in Washington. Meanwhile, he sentenced Moore to three years in prison for bankruptcy fraud, a term later reduced to one year after the prisoner cooperated in the case against Keogh and the others.

Production Resumes At Aluminum Plants

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A strike by 16,000 workers against the nation's two largest aluminum producers ended Thursday with two-year settlements intended to offer the workers greater protection against the effects of automation.

A contract was signed by the AFL-CIO Aluminum Workers International Union and Reynolds Aluminum Co. about noon. Some workers had been called back earlier after conclusion of an oral agreement. The union and the Aluminum Co. of America came to terms Wednesday night.

The union went on strike against 22 plants of the two firms early Wednesday.

Navy Craft, Nepal Airliner Vanish On Asian Flights

EDITOR'S NOTE: — Fifteen Americans are among 23 persons listed aboard two planes missing on Asian flights. Cloudy weather Thursday handicapped search parties in the hunts, 2,500 miles apart, for a U.S. Navy seaplane that vanished off the Philippines and for a Nepali airliner last heard from over Himalayan foothills on a trip from Katmandu to New Delhi, Accounts of the situation of each follow.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Monsoon clouds hanging against the foothills of the Himalayas hampered a search Thursday for a Nepali DC3 airliner missing with 10 persons, including two U.S. government officials and Nepal's ambassador to India.

Ground parties and Indian and Nepali planes joined in the hunt.

The aerial quest was suspended at dusk. With continued bad weather forecast, the organizers planned to resume early Friday.

The twin-engine plane, operated by the Royal Nepal Airlines, disappeared Wednesday on a 490-mile flight from Katmandu, Nepal's capital, to New Delhi.

The American passengers were Sidney B. Jacques and Oscar Curtis Holder, both 51 and both from Washington, D.C., touring inspectors of the Agency for International Development.

Flying with them was Nepali Ambassador Narapratap Thapa, 35, former foreign secretary of the little Himalayan kingdom. He was returning to New Delhi from a meeting of Nepal diplomats in Katmandu.

MANILA (AP) — Darkness fell over the South China Sea on Thursday night with results "still negative" in a search for a U.S. Navy P5M Marlin seaplane and its 13 crewmen...

A spokesman said four U.S. Navy ships and one Coast Guard vessel would continue the search through the night, with a full-scale air search resuming at daybreak Friday if needed.

"The weather has been horrible out there," the spokesman said.

The searchers had to contend with poor visibility caused by rain and high seas.

The twin-engine seaplane disappeared early Thursday on a training flight while en route back to its base at Sangley Point Naval Station in Manila Bay.

'Copters Defy Soviet Threat

BERLIN (UPI) — An American spokesman said Thursday night a U. S. Army helicopter flew over East Berlin Wednesday in defiance of a Soviet threat to shoot. Eyewitnesses said they saw other helicopters fly over East Berlin Thursday.

The flight reported by the U. S. spokesman was the first since Monday, when the Russian representative at Berlin's four power air safety center warned that helicopters crossing the East-West Berlin border might be shot down.

The spokesman denied reports the helicopters flew into East Berlin again Thursday. However at least three eyewitnesses said they saw two helicopters with U. S. Army markings cross the border four times and fly into East Berlin.

The eyeitnesses said the helicopters crossed the anti-refugee wall at Potsdamer Platz, circled the East German government headquarters and flew down the Unter den Linden past the Soviet Embassy to Marx-Engels Platz, a mile from the border.

"Boy Wonder" Of Decade Ago In Comeback

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Frank Clement piled up increasing leads Thursday night over two opponents in Tennessee's Democratic primary on the basis of returns from all sections of the state.

The former governor, seeking a return to the office he occupied for two terms in the 1950s, was running far ahead of Mayor P. R. Olgiati of Chattanooga and City Commissioner William W. Farris of Memphis.

Tabulations from 848 of 2,683 precincts gave:

Clement 50,998, Olgiati 33,132 and Farris 24,950.

These figures came from virtually every county of the state except big Shelby (Memphis), Farris' home town. Olgiati led in the 2nd Congressional District, his home, but Clement led in the others which had reported.

Despite cloudy skies over most of the state and showers in portions of eastern and western Tennessee, surprisingly long lines of voters were waiting when the polls opened.

The gubernatorial primary developed few issues aside from Clement's record as governor from 1953 to 1959.

Clement injected his own record into the campaign early in the race and was tabbed the man to beat before the voting started.

The former governor said his administrations provided big advances in education, public welfare, highways and industrial expansion.

Olgiati and Farris accused Clement of broken promises and misrepresentations. They called on him repeatedly to explain published reports of his financial ties with Billie Sol Estes, the indicted Texas financier. But Clement declined even to mention Estes' name in public.

TV Star May Go To Sweden For Abortion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Tired, troubled Sherri Finkbine was reported Thursday to be going to Stockholm, Sweden, for her proposed abortion.

There was no confirmation from the television actress, but Scandinavian Airlines said reservations had been made for her and her husband, Robert, on two different flights for Stockholm. One leaves Los Angeles on Friday morning; the other was to depart New York Thursday night.

Later, airline officials said the New York reservations were canceled.

It could not be determined that the couple had booked a flight from Phoenix to either Los Angeles or New York. Relatives said they still were in Phoenix.

Mrs. Finkbine, 30, whose pregnancy is nearing the three-month mark, said Wednesday, her doctor had recommended an abortion by Sunday to avoid a Caesarean section.

The Finkbines, parents of four healthy youngsters, have determined to abort this pregnancy because she says she took a drug, thalidomide, now being blamed for malformation of thousands of babies in Eruope, Canada and Australia.

In Sweden, a spokesman for the National Board of Health said that thus far, seven pregnant Swedish women who used the drug have been allowed to have abortions. Of these, he said, X-ray checks had shown the babies were malformed in only two cases.

The Finkbines catapulted into international attention July 22 when she disclosed her situation to a newspaper. Her name was kept a secret until the matter went to court in a futile attempt to get advance legal approval for the abortion to be in Arizona.

Fishing Pact Ratified

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway and the Soviet Union have ratified an agreement on fishing rights.

Official Draws McClellan Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan Thursday accused an Agriculture Department official of failing to follow up a cotton allotment investigation involving Billie Sol Estes and other farmers.

The charge came after the official, Joseph A. Moss, told the Arkansas Democrat's Senate investigating subcommittee that the department asked Estes and the others to certify the validity of allotment transfers, then waited three months for a reply.

McClellan said that Moss, as head of the Stabilization and Conservation Service's cotton division, should have contacted Estes —"the man under the greatest suspicion" — and determined whether he planned to comply with the certification request.

"You were just washing your hands of it," the senator told the witness.

But Moss testified that the request for proof that the transfers were bona fide "did not contemplate any further action by Washington."

New Guide For Treating Artery Hardening Aired

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Medical Association approved Thursday the idea of modifying the type and amount of fat in the diet as an experimental means of treating hardening of the arteries.

It was the first stand by the AMA on the controversial question of diet and heart disease.

The AMA's council on foods and nutrition said its report is not a recommendation to the general public, but is directed to physicians as a guide in treating patients.

The report said the treatment of hypercholesteremia—a high level of cholesterol in the blood—with a low-fat diet is not effective. The effect of simply reducing fat intake is to lower blood cholesterol concentration but raise blood in triglyceride concentration, the report said.

Triglycerides are the most prevalent groups of fats in plant and animal tissues consumed by humans as food.

The council said that increasing the ratio of polyunsaturated fat to saturated fat in the diet is the preferred method for treating the usual hypercholesteremia.

"It is not yet possible to state what fat intake should be for the best promotion of health," the report said.

Under experimental conditions, the council said, it has been established that substitution of polyunsaturated vegetable oils for animals fats and saturated vegetable fats in the diet resulted in a reduction of blood cholesterol. Some medical investigators blame high cholesterol as a cause of hardening of the arteries.

Rivals Yield To Pressure, Accept Pact

Strongman Due In Algiers Today To Take Over Rule

ALGIERS (AP) —Ahmed Ben Bella, a tough former sergeant in the French army, won his first major battle Thursday for power in newly independent Algeria.

Two rival deputy premiers-Belkacem Krim and Mohammed Boudiaf—agreed to accept for the next month the leadership of the Ben Bella-led political bureau so as to avert catastrophe.

The stage thus was set for the triumphal arrival of Ben Bella and his lieutenants in the capital Friday to take over temporary rule.

Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, who remained aloof from the feud between his deputies, will remain a nominal head of the provisional government but the policy-making power will rest in the political bureau.

Elections Aug. 27

Under the truce reached Thursday, the seven-man bureau will prepare general elections for Aug. 27 and then turn over power to the National Council of the Algerian Revolution, the old revolutionary parliament.

The peace pact checked—at least temporarily—the running political crisis that has brought economic chaos and plunged the nation to the brink of anarchy only a month after winning independence from France.

Ben Bella's political foes said they bowed to pressure for a compromise because "the Algerian people have been waiting for the fruits of their victories."

The prospects of more political arguments lay ahead before the struggle for power is finally resolved.

The temporary solution fails to deal directly with the basic problem of Algeria of the future—the army and its disgruntled general staff.

Army Problem Remains

Headed by Col. Houari Boumedienne, the general staff was fired by the Ben Khedda's government-in-exile on the eve of independence.

The officers of the 40,000 well-equipped troops who waited in the wings in Tunisia and Morocco while guerrillas carried on the fight inside Algeria rallied behind Ben Bella and moved in after independence.

Officials in Algeria said the problem of the army would be settled later, after the elections.

"The important thing is that unity and political wisdom has prevailed," one official said. "The people were against the crisis."

Ben Bella, a handsome 45-year-old six-footer, conceived his dream of power during five years of French captivity.

In his speeches, Ben Bella frequently uses Marxist language. He calls for sweeping Socialist reforms in Algeria and one of his ideas is that the army should be the pioneer of the "revolution."

Ghana Leader Escapes Bomb

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Police rounded up 25 persons Thursday in an apparent effort to determine whether the attempt to assassinate President Kwame Nkrumah was motivated by a political plot.

The African leader, 52, escaped unharmed when a bomb exploded Wednesday night near his car in a village 500 miles north of Accra. The blast killed four persons—including a schoolboy and two policemen—and injured 56 in the crowd gathered to greet him.

It was the first official reported direct attempt on the life of Nkrumah, who has stifled most political opposition since leading the rich Gold Coast colony to independence from Britain in 1957.

The government reported crushing a plot to kill Nkrumah in 1958 and since then he has tightened his control over the country. Before Ghana achieved independence, Nkrumah's home was damaged by a dynamite blast in 1955 but he was not there at the time.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edgar H. Dixon, 57, one of the central figures in the Dixon-Yates power controversy during the Eisenhower administration, died Thursday.

The president of Middle South Utilities, Inc., was stricken at a hotel Wednesday. He died of a stroke, at a hospital, without regaining consciousness.

A 1955 federal contract with companies headed by Dixon and the late Eugene Yates to furnish power for the Atomic Energy Commission in the Tennesse Valley Authority area touched off a running debate in Congress over public vs. private power.

The contract was never carried out.

Production Resumes At Aluminum Plants

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A strike by 16,000 workers against the nation's two largest aluminum producers ended Thursday with two-year settlements intended to offer the workers greater protection against the effects of automation.

A contract was signed by the AFL-CIO Aluminum Workers International Union and Reynolds Aluminum Co. about noon. Some workers had been called back earlier after conclusion of an oral agreement. The union and the Aluminum Co. of America came to terms Wednesday night.

The union went on strike against 22 plants of the two firms early Wednesday.

Navy Craft, Nepal Airliner Vanish On Asian Flights

EDITOR'S NOTE: — Fifteen Americans are among 23 persons listed aboard two planes missing on Asian flights. Cloudy weather Thursday handicapped search parties in the hunts, 2,500 miles apart, for a U.S. Navy seaplane that vanished off the Philippines and for a Nepali airliner last heard from over Himalayan foothills on a trip from Katmandu to New Delhi, Accounts of the situation of each follow.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Monsoon clouds hanging against the foothills of the Himalayas hampered a search Thursday for a Nepali DC3 airliner missing with 10 persons, including two U.S. government officials and Nepal's ambassador to India.

Ground parties and Indian and Nepali planes joined in the hunt.

The aerial quest was suspended at dusk. With continued bad weather forecast, the organizers planned to resume early Friday.

The twin-engine plane, operated by the Royal Nepal Airlines, disappeared Wednesday on a 490-mile flight from Katmandu, Nepal's capital, to New Delhi.

The American passengers were Sidney B. Jacques and Oscar Curtis Holder, both 51 and both from Washington, D.C., touring inspectors of the Agency for International Development.

Flying with them was Nepali Ambassador Narapratap Thapa, 35, former foreign secretary of the little Himalayan kingdom. He was returning to New Delhi from a meeting of Nepal diplomats in Katmandu.

MANILA (AP) — Darkness fell over the South China Sea on Thursday night with results "still negative" in a search for a U.S. Navy P5M Marlin seaplane and its 13 crewmen...

A spokesman said four U.S. Navy ships and one Coast Guard vessel would continue the search through the night, with a full-scale air search resuming at daybreak Friday if needed.

"The weather has been horrible out there," the spokesman said.

The searchers had to contend with poor visibility caused by rain and high seas.

The twin-engine seaplane disappeared early Thursday on a training flight while en route back to its base at Sangley Point Naval Station in Manila Bay.

'Copters Defy Soviet Threat

BERLIN (UPI) — An American spokesman said Thursday night a U. S. Army helicopter flew over East Berlin Wednesday in defiance of a Soviet threat to shoot. Eyewitnesses said they saw other helicopters fly over East Berlin Thursday.

The flight reported by the U. S. spokesman was the first since Monday, when the Russian representative at Berlin's four power air safety center warned that helicopters crossing the East-West Berlin border might be shot down.

The spokesman denied reports the helicopters flew into East Berlin again Thursday. However at least three eyewitnesses said they saw two helicopters with U. S. Army markings cross the border four times and fly into East Berlin.

The eyeitnesses said the helicopters crossed the anti-refugee wall at Potsdamer Platz, circled the East German government headquarters and flew down the Unter den Linden past the Soviet Embassy to Marx-Engels Platz, a mile from the border.

Clement Leads In Tennessee

BISHOP TESTIFIES — The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California, testifies before the Senate Judiciary Committee. The senators are holding hearings on a proposed constitutional amendment to nullify a Supreme Court ruling that official prayers in schools are unconstitutional. Bishop Pike urged rewriting the First Amendment to block the court from "deconsecrating" the nation. (Story on page 2). (AP Photofax)

"Boy Wonder" Of Decade Ago In Comeback

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Frank Clement piled up increasing leads Thursday night over two opponents in Tennessee's Democratic primary on the basis of returns from all sections of the state.

The former governor, seeking a return to the office he occupied for two terms in the 1950s, was running far ahead of Mayor P. R. Olgiati of Chattanooga and City Commissioner William W. Farris of Memphis.

Tabulations from 848 of 2,683 precincts gave:

Clement 50,998, Olgiati 33,132 and Farris 24,950.

These figures came from virtually every county of the state except big Shelby (Memphis), Farris' home town. Olgiati led in the 2nd Congressional District, his home, but Clement led in the others which had reported.

Despite cloudy skies over most of the state and showers in portions of eastern and western Tennessee, surprisingly long lines of voters were waiting when the polls opened.

The gubernatorial primary developed few issues aside from Clement's record as governor from 1953 to 1959.

Clement injected his own record into the campaign early in the race and was tabbed the man to beat before the voting started.

The former governor said his administrations provided big advances in education, public welfare, highways and industrial expansion.

Olgiati and Farris accused Clement of broken promises and misrepresentations. They called on him repeatedly to explain published reports of his financial ties with Billie Sol Estes, the indicted Texas financier. But Clement declined even to mention Estes' name in public.

TV Star May Go To Sweden For Abortion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Tired, troubled Sherri Finkbine was reported Thursday to be going to Stockholm, Sweden, for her proposed abortion.

There was no confirmation from the television actress, but Scandinavian Airlines said reservations had been made for her and her husband, Robert, on two different flights for Stockholm. One leaves Los Angeles on Friday morning; the other was to depart New York Thursday night.

Later, airline officials said the New York reservations were canceled.

It could not be determined that the couple had booked a flight from Phoenix to either Los Angeles or New York. Relatives said they still were in Phoenix.

Mrs. Finkbine, 30, whose pregnancy is nearing the three-month mark, said Wednesday, her doctor had recommended an abortion by Sunday to avoid a Caesarean section.

The Finkbines, parents of four healthy youngsters, have determined to abort this pregnancy because she says she took a drug, thalidomide, now being blamed for malformation of thousands of babies in Eruope, Canada and Australia.

In Sweden, a spokesman for the National Board of Health said that thus far, seven pregnant Swedish women who used the drug have been allowed to have abortions. Of these, he said, X-ray checks had shown the babies were malformed in only two cases.

The Finkbines catapulted into international attention July 22 when she disclosed her situation to a newspaper. Her name was kept a secret until the matter went to court in a futile attempt to get advance legal approval for the abortion to be in Arizona.

Fishing Pact Ratified

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway and the Soviet Union have ratified an agreement on fishing rights.

Official Draws McClellan Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan Thursday accused an Agriculture Department official of failing to follow up a cotton allotment investigation involving Billie Sol Estes and other farmers.

The charge came after the official, Joseph A. Moss, told the Arkansas Democrat's Senate investigating subcommittee that the department asked Estes and the others to certify the validity of allotment transfers, then waited three months for a reply.

McClellan said that Moss, as head of the Stabilization and Conservation Service's cotton division, should have contacted Estes —"the man under the greatest suspicion" — and determined whether he planned to comply with the certification request.

"You were just washing your hands of it," the senator told the witness.

But Moss testified that the request for proof that the transfers were bona fide "did not contemplate any further action by Washington."

MANILA (AP) — The United States will assist the Philippine government in a long-range program to develop four provinces of central Luzon. The government said flood conditions will be controlled, a large swamp will be converted into a lake and electric power furnished.

New Guide For Treating Artery Hardening Aired

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Medical Association approved Thursday the idea of modifying the type and amount of fat in the diet as an experimental means of treating hardening of the arteries.

It was the first stand by the AMA on the controversial question of diet and heart disease.

The AMA's council on foods and nutrition said its report is not a recommendation to the general public, but is directed to physicians as a guide in treating patients.

The report said the treatment of hypercholesteremia—a high level of cholesterol in the blood—with a low-fat diet is not effective. The effect of simply reducing fat intake is to lower blood cholesterol concentration but raise blood in triglyceride concentration, the report said.

Triglycerides are the most prevalent groups of fats in plant and animal tissues consumed by humans as food.

The council said that increasing the ratio of polyunsaturated fat to saturated fat in the diet is the preferred method for treating the usual hypercholesteremia.

"It is not yet possible to state what fat intake should be for the best promotion of health," the report said.

Under experimental conditions, the council said, it has been established that substitution of polyunsaturated vegetable oils for animals fats and saturated vegetable fats in the diet resulted in a reduction of blood cholesterol. Some medical investigators blame high cholesterol as a cause of hardening of the arteries.

Rivals Yield To Pressure, Accept Pact

Strongman Due In Algiers Today To Take Over Rule

ALGIERS (AP) —Ahmed Ben Bella, a tough former sergeant in the French army, won his first major battle Thursday for power in newly independent Algeria.

Two rival deputy premiers-Belkacem Krim and Mohammed Boudiaf—agreed to accept for the next month the leadership of the Ben Bella-led political bureau so as to avert catastrophe.

The stage thus was set for the triumphal arrival of Ben Bella and his lieutenants in the capital Friday to take over temporary rule.

Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, who remained aloof from the feud between his deputies, will remain a nominal head of the provisional government but the policy-making power will rest in the political bureau.

Elections Aug. 27

Under the truce reached Thursday, the seven-man bureau will prepare general elections for Aug. 27 and then turn over power to the National Council of the Algerian Revolution, the old revolutionary parliament.

The peace pact checked—at least temporarily—the running political crisis that has brought economic chaos and plunged the nation to the brink of anarchy only a month after winning independence from France.

Ben Bella's political foes said they bowed to pressure for a compromise because "the Algerian people have been waiting for the fruits of their victories."

The prospects of more political arguments lay ahead before the struggle for power is finally resolved.

The temporary solution fails to deal directly with the basic problem of Algeria of the future—the army and its disgruntled general staff.

Army Problem Remains

Headed by Col. Houari Boumedienne, the general staff was fired by the Ben Khedda's government-in-exile on the eve of independence.

The officers of the 40,000 well-equipped troops who waited in the wings in Tunisia and Morocco while guerrillas carried on the fight inside Algeria rallied behind Ben Bella and moved in after independence.

Officials in Algeria said the problem of the army would be settled later, after the elections.

"The important thing is that unity and political wisdom has prevailed," one official said. "The people were against the crisis."

Ben Bella, a handsome 45-year-old six-footer, conceived his dream of power during five years of French captivity.

In his speeches, Ben Bella frequently uses Marxist language. He calls for sweeping Socialist reforms in Algeria and one of his ideas is that the army should be the pioneer of the "revolution."

Ghana Leader Escapes Bomb

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Police rounded up 25 persons Thursday in an apparent effort to determine whether the attempt to assassinate President Kwame Nkrumah was motivated by a political plot.

The African leader, 52, escaped unharmed when a bomb exploded Wednesday night near his car in a village 500 miles north of Accra. The blast killed four persons—including a schoolboy and two policemen—and injured 56 in the crowd gathered to greet him.

It was the first official reported direct attempt on the life of Nkrumah, who has stifled most political opposition since leading the rich Gold Coast colony to independence from Britain in 1957.

The government reported crushing a plot to kill Nkrumah in 1958 and since then he has tightened his control over the country. Before Ghana achieved independence, Nkrumah's home was damaged by a dynamite blast in 1955 but he was not there at the time.

Charles Laughton In Fair Condition

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Charles Laughton was reported in fair condition Thursday at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where he underwent surgery Thursday for a collapsed vertebra.

Earlier in the day, attendants described his condition as poor.

Laughton, 63, was treated in New York hospitals in January and June for a broken collarbone suffered in a bathtub fall.

Kennedy Adds 25 Areas To Food Stamp Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy Thursday extended to 25 additional areas in 18 states the year-old food stamp plan which provides cut-rate groceries to needy families.

In a special statement, the President said the first 12 months of the program had been so encouraging he had asked the Agriculture Department to extend it for another year in the original eight pilot areas and add the new areas.

"Addition of the new communities will permit us to obtain a better evaluation of the program under a wider range of operating conditions than was possible initially," the Chief Executive said.

Kennedy said an additional 223,000 persons would be aided in Arkansas, Oregon, Virginia, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, North Carolina, Minnesota, Missouri, Alabama, Oklahoma, Washington, Wisconsin, California, Indiana, Louisiana, Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Under the program, low-income and unemployed families buy food stamps with the money they normally would spend for meat, poultry, fish, milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

They then use the stamps at their own grocery to buy food worth more than they paid for the coupons.

The main aim of the original program was to improve the nutrition of needy families in depressed areas. In the first eight test areas the food stamp program replaced the giveaway of surplus food.

The new areas to be added to the program include Logan, Mingo and Wayne Counties, W. Va., and Luzerne County, Pa.

Tentpole Falls, Kills. W. Va. Boy

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—An 11-year-old Raleigh County boy was killed Thursday in a freak accident while pitching a tent.

He was Douglas Lee Hicks of Crab Orchard. Authorities said Hicks and some friends were putting up a tent when a 12-foot tentpole fell across his head and shoulders.

Ike, Adenauer Have Reunion, Private Chat

BONN, Germany (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer had a friendly reunion Thursday night.

Eisenhower, now on a private tourist trip to Germany, and Adenauer, who has guided West Germany for 13 years, met at the home of U.S. Minister Brewster Morris.

It was a social occasion, with Mrs. Eisenhower and the former President's traveling companions present, as well as diplomats, German officials and leading citizens.

But Eisenhower and Adenauer, trusted associates from the years when the general was supreme commander of the Allied powers in Europe and during his eight-year term as president, did not limit themselves to casual party talk.

They reserved an hour for a private chat in Adenauer's chancellory after te reception and before a dinner given by Adenauer for Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower and their friends.

Adenauer is 86; Eisenhower 71.

Eisenhower received a hero's welcome when he arrived in Cologne on Thursday morning from Copenhagen for his first visit to Germany since the end of his presidency.

Thousands of applauding, cheering Germans greeted him.

Bank Head, Indicted For Perjury, Resigns

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Lou Poller, indicated by a federal grand jury at Washington for perjury, resigned Thursday as president and director of the Miami National Bank.

A spokesman for the bank said the resignation was accepted with regret in compliance with Poller's wishes to avoid harassment for the bank.

Directors elected William L. Pallot as president of the bank and chose Theodore A. Davis Jr. as chairman of the board.

"Yesterday's indictment was a personal matter and wholly unconnected with the bank," Poller said. "There is absolutely no foundation for the charges filed and I know that when the matter is concluded I will be completely cleared."

The grand jury charged Poller falsely answered questions about an alleged conference with Fred W. Strecker Jr., a Teamsters Union pension fund trustee, on Nov. 12, 1959.

Mother Saves Seven In Fire

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — A policeman's wife rescued her seven children by throwing one out of the window, and carrying the others outside, two at a time, when fire broke out in their home Thursday.

Her husband, Patrolman Joseph Walsh, was at work when fire broke out in their split level home.

Margaret Walsh, 34, discovered the blaze when she was feeding 11-month-old Christine.

She dropped a bunk bed from an upper window and urged the children to jump on it, but they were too frightened. Then the mother dropped 3-year-old Colleen on the bed and carried the other six outside.

On her last trip Mrs. Walsh and her infant suffered burns about the face.

Firemen said the blaze started in a defective lamp cord.

Court's School Prayer Ban Hit By Bishop Pike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bishop James A. Pike said Thursday the U.S. Supreme Court misread and distorted the First Amendment in its June 25 school prayer decision.

The bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California told senators that what is really needed is not another constitutional amendment but a restating of the First Amendment "so that the Supreme Court will never be able to misread the establishment clause again."

Bishop Pike, who also is an attorney admitted to practice before the Supreme Court, testified at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing on proposed constitutional amendments to nullify the court's decision.

In a 6-1 ruling, the Supreme Court held that New York State school officials, by encouraging the daily recitation of a nonsectarian prayer, had violated the First Amendment's command that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." The court noted that this command was made applicable to New York State by the 14th Amendment.

Czechs Say GI Defected To Escape Racial Bias

VIENNA (UPI) — Communist broadcasts reported Thursday that a U.S. soldier serving with a missile unit in West Germany has asked for political asylum in Czechloslovakia, charging racial discrimination in the U.S. Army.

U.S. officials said the soldier deserted May 8, the day he was to be court-martialed, and that he had no access to secrets in his job as a mechanic.

He was identified as Cpl. Raymond S. Hareld, a Negro, of (99 Woodward Ave.,) East Providence, R.I. He last was seen in the west May 30, when he disappeared over the Austrian-Czech border with a German woman.

In East Providence, Hareld's mother, Mrs. Lydia J. Hareld, said: "It's all a mistake. My son had nothing against his country." She disclosed her son is married to a Japanese woman and has two songs, one of whom is hospitalized with a blood disease.

She said he never expressed any Communist sympathies to her or his wife, Hatsuko, and was a career soldier who "wanted the whole United States to be the Army—he loved the Army so much."

The Communist agencies said Hareld defected to escape racial discrimination in the Army. But in Heidelberg, Germany, Army spokesmen said he vanished the day he was to have faced a court-martial for unspecified customs violations.

S&L Firm's Assets Frozen By Court

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — The assets of the First General Savings & Loan Association of Bethesda were frozen Thursday by a Montgomery County Circuit Court judge after the state said the firm was impaired and insolvent and asked that it be put into receivership.

Judge Ralph G. Shure set a hearing for 10 a. m. Friday on the state's petition.

Shure, meantime, ordered Maryland Thrift Savings & Loan Association, Silver Spring, to forfeit its charter. He then appointed J. Ingram Medley, a Silver Spring real estate man, as receiver to dissolve the firm.

Shure placed Maryland Thrift in receivership Wednesday.

Once a costly disposal problem for poultry plants, feathers now are being turned into high-protein meal for use in feeds.

In East Providence, Hareld's mother, Mrs. Lydia J. Hareld, said: "It's all a mistake. My son had nothing against his country." She disclosed her son is married to a Japanese woman and has two songs, one of whom is hospitalized with a blood disease.

She said he never expressed any Communist sympathies to her or his wife, Hatsuko, and was a career soldier who "wanted the whole United States to be the Army—he loved the Army so much."

The Communist agencies said Hareld defected to escape racial discrimination in the Army. But in Heidelberg, Germany, Army spokesmen said he vanished the day he was to have faced a court-martial for unspecified customs violations.

S&L Firm's Assets Frozen By Court

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — The assets of the First General Savings & Loan Association of Bethesda were frozen Thursday by a Montgomery County Circuit Court judge after the state said the firm was impaired and insolvent and asked that it be put into receivership.

Judge Ralph G. Shure set a hearing for 10 a. m. Friday on the state's petition.

Shure, meantime, ordered Maryland Thrift Savings & Loan Association, Silver Spring, to forfeit its charter. He then appointed J Ingram Medley, a Silver Spring real estate man, as receiver to dissolve the firm.

Shure placed Maryland Thrift in receivership Wednesday.

Once a costly disposal problem for poultry plants, feathers now are being turned into high-protein meal for use in feeds.

No wonder the English keep so cool!

(mix Gordon's Gin in a tall, iced drink–and you will, too!)

The English are not easily fazed, even by summer heat. This national talent was given a cheerful accompaniment in 1769, when Alexander Gordon introduced his remarkable gin. The Gordon's you drink today harks back to his original formula, because one does not tamper with gin of such distinctive dryness and flavour. Try it soon in a tangy Gin & Tonic or Tom Collins. You'll see why, summer and winter, Gordon's Gin is the biggest seller in England, America, and indeed – the world!

Cop Accused Of Assault Will Not Be Prosecuted

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — State's Atty. C. Burnam Mace said Thursday he would not prosecute a Cambridge police officer charged by two integrationists with assault and battery.

"An exhaustive and impartial investigation of the alleged incident," Mace said, "has been completed by the Maryland State Police and the county detectives.

"The reports reveal nothing to justify a criminal prosecution by the state. No useful purpose could be served by any further hearing . . ."

Arnold Goldwag, 24, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Thomas Kennedy, 19, of Wellesley Hills, Mass., swore out the warrants July 18 against Lt. Randall Dayton.

Goldwag, a member of the Congress of Racial Equality, and Kennedy, a member of the Civic Interest Group of Maryland, said Dayton shoved them out of the White Owl Inn.

They said they had gone to the restaurant with a Negro girl to ask the owner, Earl Hoge, to serve Negroes, but were ejected before they could explain their mission.

Both the Congress of Racial Equality and the Civic Interest Group conducted demonstrations in Cambridge last winter against racial discrimination. Kennedy and Goldwag are white.

An estimated 40 per cent of the tires of new United States automobiles and nearly 24 per cent of the replacement tires sold are white sidewalls.

Hagerstown Newsman Will Join Fairchild

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A. Vernon Davis has resigned as assistant editor of the Morning Herald in Hagerstown to become editor-writer on the information staff of Fairchild Stratos Corp.

Davis, 38, has been with the newspaper for 20 years. His last day with the Herald will be August 17 and he will report to his new position in Hagerstown August 20.

He was awarded the National Headliner medal for journalistic achievement in 1948 and 1960. His writing on behalf of industrial development in 1960 won first prize for community service among Maryland's daily newspapers.

Davis, who wrote a front-page column called "The Local Scene," joined the Herald in 1942. He wrote a weekly column while serving in the Army Air Corps for three years during World War II and later started the newspaper's first regular photographic coverage of the local scene.

He was named Hagerstown's outstanding young man of the year in 1958 and won the Hagerstown Civitan Club's outstanding citizenship award in 1906. He helped organize the Community Rescue Service in Hagerstown and is vice president of the Men's Republican Club of Washington County.

Davis is married to the former Ruth Alice Hose and they have two children, Anne 5, and Vincent Gilbert, 2½.

An independent principality for some 300 years, Monaco has belonged to the House of Grimaldi, except during the French revolution.

Maryland Briefs

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Frank Small, Republican candidate for governor, says teachers in Maryland should be paid according to the cost of living in their area.

Addressing a rally Wednesday night of the Men's Republican Club of Washington County, Small said "This is the only way that we can devise a system of fair compensation for our teachers."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Seamen's unions cleared for passage Thursday the SS Mae, a World War II Liberty ship destined for Italy on her last voyage.

The SS Mae will be sold abroad for scrap by the Bull Line. The unions representing the crew had refused to let her sail until Bull put in escrow money covering wages and fare back home.

Agreement to permit the SS Mae to sail from Baltimore was reached in New York.

HARUNDALE, Md. (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Barber, lecturing her two children and a nephew about the danger of firearms, removed the clip from a 22-caliber pistol and let the nephew hold the gun.

But one bullet remained in the chamber of the pistol and the gun went off, sending a bullet into the stomach of her 5-year-old son, Dean.

He was reported in critical condition Thursday at Anne Arundel General Hospital in Annapolis.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — State's Attorney Frank H. Newell said Thursday he will ask the Baltimore County grand jury Monday to indict Willard Lee Allen, 28, of Lancaster, Pa., for the murder of a Baltimore city barmaid.

The nude body of Mrs. Ethel E. Johnson, 31, was found in the trunk of an automobile parked in Philadelphia July 3. The manager of a rental agency in Lancaster said Allen had hired the car June 28.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Is Baltimore an ugly city of honky tonks?

The lead editorial in the Architects Report, published by the Baltimore chapter of the American Institute of Architects, says it is.

The editorial said of Baltimore:

"Its highways approach through rows of junkyards, vacant lots, billboards. Its inner harbor, potentially its greatest asset, is almost derelict . . . No wonder thousands of housewives and children no longer come downtown if they can avoid it."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Donald G. Shropshire, former administrator of the Eastern State Hospital in Lexington, Ky., was named Thursday associate director of University Hospital.

Shropshire is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and did graduate work in hospital administration at the University of Chicago.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Department of Health reported Thursday U.S. nuclear explosions in the Pacific and in Nevada have not significantly increased radioactive fallout in this area.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Maj. Lawrence Bailey of Laurel, Md., is believed among Americans and Filipinos captured earlier by Pathet Lao forces and now en route to Vientiane and freedom.

Prince Souphanouvong said the captives will arrive in a few days. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said five Americans and one Filipino were known to be captives, including Maj. Bailey.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hyman A. Pressman said Thursday he is not a candidate for mayor but admitted he would drop his role as civic watchdog and become a candidate if there were a genuine draft.

He said friends had conducted, unbeknown to him, a telephone poll on his chances for election and the result was overwhelmingly affirmative.

"If there would be a genuine draft by a very large segment of independent citizens who would expect no recompense for their efforts," Pressman said, "I would consider running for mayor."

Newspaper Hall Of Fame Planned

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A planning meeting and a public announcement are scheduled this month and next by those working out details for establishment of a National Newspaper Hall of Fame on South Mountain.

George Rash of the Hagerstown Mail, chairman of a Maryland-Delaware Press Association committee, said the planning session would be held next Thursday in Annapolis.

At that time, some suggested changes in a building to be erected as a memorial will be considered.

Plans for establishing the Hall of Fame will be announced by Gov. Tawes Sept. 13 as part of Maryland's Civil War Centennial observance.

The Hall of Fame is to be established in Gathland State Park on the Washington - Frederick County line, where George Alfred Townsend erected a war correspondents arch in 1896.

Morale Of 100 Navy Men In Fallout Shelter Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Morale and health was reported good Thursday as 100 Navy officers and men completed the first day of a two-week test in an underground fallout shelter.

Lt. (j.g.) John T. White of Toledo, Ohio, the shelter commander, sent out word that his men were calm and their morale satisfactory. White also described their general condition as good.

Capt. David Minard of Fargo, N.D., medical officer in the shelter, passed word that there are a few minor head colds among the men but no rashes or any other difficulties caused by heat.

The Navy officers and men entered the shelter Wednesday to test how men would bear up in such confined underground quarters in summer weather.

Navy experts described air conditions in the shelter Thursday as comfortable — temperature 85 degrees and relative humidity 65 per cent.

The men are allowed to smoke without restriction. The Navy said they had been playing cards and checkers, and reading.

They also have heard lectures. Half the men slept from 2 a.m. to 10 a.m., the remainder from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Ocean City Candidate Favors Sunday Liquor

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — You can't buy a cocktail when you are visiting Ocean City on Sunday but a candidate for mayor says you should be allowed to.

Russell Cullen says Ocean City businessmen are missing out on money that is being spent by persons who bring their alcoholic beverages with them for Sunday consumption.

The incumbent mayor, Hugh Cropper, says he wants to keep Sunday dry. A third candidate, R. Crawford Holland, says the proposal would have to have civic approval before he could support its introduction in the state legislature.

Clothing Tips To Job-Seeking Teens Offered

With five million high school students seeking jobs this summer and another million high school graduates filling part-time jobs until college begins this fall, competition is keen. "Those who win in the job race will be the ones who pay attention to the small details in their personal appearance," says Miss Lavonia Hilbert, extension clothing specialist, University of Maryland.

"On the surface it sounds a bit shallow to say that clothes make the man—but after all, 90 per cent of what people see of you is your clothing. If your suit sags, your shirt is rumpled, shoes need polishing and socks and tie aren't on speaking terms—it's natural for people to assume you're careless about your work and responsibilities."

Miss Hilbert offered these tips on how teenage job seekers can be "sharp dressers:" Your clothes should be appropriate for occasions or activities. For the business office stay on the conservative side with suits in darker shades. Patterned sport jackets combined with plain color slacks are worn for business in some communities—but don't forget to wear a tie. Bold plaids, bright colors, sloppy jackets and sneakers, are strictly for school or sports. Clothes should fit well. Be sure to select styles and colors that are flattering to your build and personal coloring. Clothes should be well coordinated. For example, wear one pattern at a time. With a patterned sport coat, wear a plain color shirt, tie and slacks; or with a plain coat wear either a patterned tie or shirt, but not both. Match your shoes and belt in color and style. Socks should match shoes or else pick up the trouser color. Shirts should match the occasion. It is hard to beat white, but the soft-toned, patterned shirts are also acceptable. Ties should be narrow and neat; either striped, plain or patterned. Let ties add some color to your outfit. Trousers should hang straight front and back, with the cuff just touching the shoe. Finally, it would be a shame to lose out on a summer job by not being well groomed and neat in your appearance. So get a neat hair cut, shine those shoes, press those trousers.

"Remember," concludes the Extension specialist, "whether you're job hunting or getting the most out of leisure time, when you look your best, you do your best."

The second annual Baldwin-Cox reunion will be held Sunday at the cottage of William Cox, South Branch.

Secrets Of Charm

Must Lips And Nails Always Match?

Just because lipstick and nail polish march in matched pairs across cosmetic counters, women have come to believe that mixing their colors is akin to breaking some unwritten, but unwavering Eleventh Commandment.

Actually, lipstick and nail polish needn't be identical shades at all, as long as they are related in the same color family. It's far more fun — and, sometimes, more fashion-wise — to create new combinations and contrasts with these colorful cosmetic aids.

Collect all the color families in the lipsticks and polishes you keep on hand — the blue-tones, the pinks, the orange-tinged and the purest red. But let the depth of color you choose be determined individually — according to the face and mouth that display the lipstick, according to the shape of the hands and nails that wear the polish.

You may have facial contours and lip lines that lend themselves to rich, bright lipstick shades. But if your hands are short and stubby, your short, round nails will look longer and more tapering if they are covered with the same color in a much paler shade. Dark polish makes such hands look only stubbier.

Both very tiny hands and long slim hands of delicate hue may look far more distinguished with a high-sheen buffing or a coat of iridescent pearl or colorless nail polish, whatever shade of lipstick suits the face.

If a full, well-shaped mouth is an asset you can add to being young enough . . . and dark or fair enough . . . to look stunning in the softest shades of lipstick, you can be sure that matching light polish will highlight your hands and nails whether they're long or short.

But if your hands are long and shapely, tipped with the almond-like nails all women long for, you have an option your short-handed sisters will envy. Hands and nails like these can wear any color they please, coated all over or revealing moons, white tips or both. And the deeper, richer the contrast to your lipstick's pale glow, the more dynamic and startling the effect will be. Just so color family rules are observed, for the sake of the discerning eyes your fashion-flight will catch.

Comparing the color of your face and hands to the dead-white of an ordinary sheet of paper will tell you your complexion. Clothing Tips To Job-Seeking Teens Offered

With five million high school students seeking jobs this summer and another million high school graduates filling part-time jobs until college begins this fall, competition is keen. "Those who win in the job race will be the ones who pay attention to the small details in their personal appearance," says Miss Lavonia Hilbert, extension clothing specialist, University of Maryland.

"On the surface it sounds a bit shallow to say that clothes make the man—but after all, 90 per cent of what people see of you is your clothing. If your suit sags, your shirt is rumpled, shoes need polishing and socks and tie aren't on speaking terms—it's natural for people to assume you're careless about your work and responsibilities."

Miss Hilbert offered these tips on how teenage job seekers can be "sharp dressers:" Your clothes should be appropriate for occasions or activities. For the business office stay on the conservative side with suits in darker shades. Patterned sport jackets combined with plain color slacks are worn for business in some communities—but don't forget to wear a tie. Bold plaids, bright colors, sloppy jackets and sneakers, are strictly for school or sports. Clothes should fit well. Be sure to select styles and colors that are flattering to your build and personal coloring. Clothes should be well coordinated. For example, wear one pattern at a time. With a patterned sport coat, wear a plain color shirt, tie and slacks; or with a plain coat wear either a patterned tie or shirt, but not both. Match your shoes and belt in color and style. Socks should match shoes or else pick up the trouser color. Shirts should match the occasion. It is hard to beat white, but the soft-toned, patterned shirts are also acceptable. Ties should be narrow and neat; either striped, plain or patterned. Let ties add some color to your outfit. Trousers should hang straight front and back, with the cuff just touching the shoe. Finally, it would be a shame to lose out on a summer job by not being well groomed and neat in your appearance. So get a neat hair cut, shine those shoes, press those trousers.

"Remember," concludes the Extension specialist, "whether you're job hunting or getting the most out of leisure time, when you look your best, you do your best."

Must Lips And Nails Always Match?

Just because lipstick and nail polish march in matched pairs across cosmetic counters, women have come to believe that mixing their colors is akin to breaking some unwritten, but unwavering Eleventh Commandment.

Actually, lipstick and nail polish needn't be identical shades at all, as long as they are related in the same color family. It's far more fun — and, sometimes, more fashion-wise — to create new combinations and contrasts with these colorful cosmetic aids.

Collect all the color families in the lipsticks and polishes you keep on hand — the blue-tones, the pinks, the orange-tinged and the purest red. But let the depth of color you choose be determined individually — according to the face and mouth that display the lipstick, according to the shape of the hands and nails that wear the polish.

You may have facial contours and lip lines that lend themselves to rich, bright lipstick shades. But if your hands are short and stubby, your short, round nails will look longer and more tapering if they are covered with the same color in a much paler shade. Dark polish makes such hands look only stubbier.

Both very tiny hands and long slim hands of delicate hue may look far more distinguished with a high-sheen buffing or a coat of iridescent pearl or colorless nail polish, whatever shade of lipstick suits the face.

If a full, well-shaped mouth is an asset you can add to being young enough . . . and dark or fair enough . . . to look stunning in the softest shades of lipstick, you can be sure that matching light polish will highlight your hands and nails whether they're long or short.

But if your hands are long and shapely, tipped with the almond-like nails all women long for, you have an option your short-handed sisters will envy. Hands and nails like these can wear any color they please, coated all over or revealing moons, white tips or both. And the deeper, richer the contrast to your lipstick's pale glow, the more dynamic and startling the effect will be. Just so color family rules are observed, for the sake of the discerning eyes your fashion-flight will catch.

Comparing the color of your face and hands to the dead-white of an ordinary sheet of paper will tell you your complexion. For more information on how to decide "Your Color Type," send for my pamphlet by this name today. Write to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for delivery within two weeks.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a rival who hangs around my home day and night, monopolizes my husband's time and attention, takes over our dinner conversation, and even invades the bedroom. Her name is Baseball and I'm sick of her.

My husband is seldom at home for dinner during the week, but whenever he is, we have to watch a game. I wouldn't dare to open up my mouth during a play. When we go to bed he always has a game on the radio. He falls asleep around the seventh inning. The radio bothers me so I sleep on a lumpy cot downstairs. He calls this "unfriendly."

Ann, I like baseball and have learned a great deal about it, but I think there's a time and place for it. He knows how I feel but it doesn't seem to matter. Shall I just continue to suffer with it as I have for the last 14 years?—F.O.B. (Full of Baseball)

DEAR F.O.B.: Rejoice in the knowledge that your rival is an inanimate, seasonal thing. Also on the plus side—can't you see that it's boyish infatuation (and not true love) or he wouldn't fall asleep in the seventh inning?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It did my heart good to read that letter from Maple Leaf who believes it is perfectly all right for a woman who is separated from her husband (though not divorced) to go out with men. Usually, I agree with YOU, but this time I was on the other side.

Maple Leaf's colorful description of Canada's divorce laws was not an exaggeration. Until this archaic legislation is changed there will be no place in society for the woman whose first marriage was a mistake.

There is no alternative for women who are legally chained but living alone. They are sunk unless they accept dates. Married women never include us because they are fearful their husbands may find us attractive. Single girls are trying to snag men for themselves, so they aren't going to include us either.

My advice to Maple Leaf is to use discretion. Her reputation wil not be sullied. True friends will understand there is no other way. The rest of the loudmouths don't count. If you are fair, Ann Landers, you will print this letter—NEVER-NEVER LAND

DEAR NEVER-NEVER: Thank you for your letter. It reflected the thinking of hundreds of other Canadians who wrote in support of Maple Leaf.

My position that married women should not be dating still stands. However, let's hope this furor may help to achieve sounder legislation for Canadians.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter in your column about blind dates. You seem to be in favor of them, in fact you make it sound like an exciting adventure.

What do you think about a girl being picked up if the fellow looks respectable? This is even more adventurous and a whole lot more sensible than a blind date. After all, when a girl accepts a blind date she has to take someone else's word that the guy is all right. Don't you think a girl is safer if she sizes up the fellow and decides for herself? If he gets smart she can always tell him to get lost.

Several of us girls have talked this over during lunch and we want your opinion. — MODERN MISSES

DEAR MISSES: A blind date is an arrangement made by a mutual friend who knows something about both parties. This is ifinitely safer than deciding at a glance whether a man is married, a dope pusher, a psychopath or heavens knows what.

The girl who gets picked up admits, in a sense, that no one she knows will invite her out so she's willing to take a chance on a stranger. Such a girl puts a cheap price-tag on her company.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDER'S booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mine Bureau Cooperates In School Project

The Maryland Bureau of Mines is cooperating with the Garrett County Board of Education in a project that will provide a school site in Crellin and help clear up mine waste water pollution in the Youghiogheny River.

An old mine opening and a pond that has been filled with sulphur water from the mine is being backfilled by the G. and S. Coal Company.

The firm received the work under a contract advertised and let by the Bureau of Mines.

A new three-room primary school is under construction on the site of the former Kray Coal Company property where there was once a tipple and washing equipment.

Opening lead: Ten of ♦ Early in his career, the aspiring bridge player learns to lead toward the hand containing high cards rather than away from it. The object is to force an opponent to play first in the hope that he has the missing high honors in the suit. However, considerations of timing can on occasion alter the rule. Today, we have an exception which, paradoxically enough, also happens to offer proof of the principle.

The first round of bidding was quite sound. Observe in particular South's response of one no trump to North's take-out double. Altho South has five trumps, a penalty pass would not be in order, because his hearts are placed in front of the bidder where they will be finessable. In order to pass, a player should have a good enough suit to be able to draw the opponent's trumps.

North's jump to three clubs does not draw our vote, however. Altho he does have a good hand, his suit is too broken to invite a game. South, of course, was well within himself in carrying on to three no trump.

The opening lead of the ten of diamonds was taken in the dummy, and declarer entered his hand with the king of spades in order to lead a club toward the king. West played the ace of clubs and, realizing that the defense had no future unless tricks could be developed quickly, he shifted to the queen of spades in the hope of finding partner with some support in that area. Declarer held up, but his cause was now hopeless. East was able to get in with the queen of clubs and, after cashing the long spade, he shifted to a heart to produce two more tricks for the defenders. The result was a two trick set.

Altho it was essential for declarer to make one club play from his hand in order to establish the suit, the lead can be postponed until he has full control of the proceedings. After winning the diamond opening, South should play a low club from the dummy immediately. This costs nothing, since two club tricks must be conceded in any event, in order to establish the suit. No matter which opponent wins the club, declarer has time to come to his hand with the king of spades in order to make his one lead toward the dummy's suit. When West's ace of clubs appears, the suit is now established and declarer has nine tricks.

Army Plans Fair Exhibit On Weapons

Army progress in weapons and versatility is highlighted in an official exhibit to be displayed at the Cumberland Fair the week of August 20-25.

Titled "The U. S. Army—Heritage of Progress," the exhibit was arranged to be shown here by Sgt. Jack Wehler of the Cumberland recruiting office through the Army Exhibit Unit at Cameron Station, Alexandria, Va.

The exhibit, according to Sgt. Wehler, shows the Army's ability to cope with small, limited conflicts as well as all-out atomic war, and forecasts weapons of the future projected to the year 1975.

The concept behind the Army's "measured response" is explained, as are the modern Army's requirements for far-ranging mobility, long-ranging firepower and wide-ranging communications to assure victory on the atomic battlefield.

Army personnel will be on hand to answer questions posed by viewers. There is no charge for admission.

Mine Bureau Cooperates In School Project

The Maryland Bureau of Mines is cooperating with the Garrett County Board of Education in a project that will provide a school site in Crellin and help clear up mine waste water pollution in the Youghiogheny River.

An old mine opening and a pond that has been filled with sulphur water from the mine is being backfilled by the G. and S. Coal Company.

The firm received the work under a contract advertised and let by the Bureau of Mines.

A new three-room primary school is under construction on the site of the former Kray Coal Company property where there was once a tipple and washing equipment.

By closing the mine mouth and filling up the pond, the sulphur water will not be able to enter the Yough River and cause fish-killing pollution.

The school will be used by primary pupils of the Crellin-Hutton community, where most coal operations have ceased.

Willard Hawkins, superintendent of Garrett County schools pointed out that the children will not have to be transported into Oakland.

The elimination of this cost, he added, will pay for the new school within 15 years.

The old wooden school will be abandoned for instructional purposes and sold, he explained.

The new school is being constructed by Lawrence Hardesty, Oakland builder, and it is expected to be ready for occupancy by January 1.

Area Children Donate $34 To M-D

Over $34 was collected at a M-D Carnival sponsored by children in Bowman's Addition, and turned over to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman of Allegany-Garrett Muscular Dystrophy Chapter.

Chief Parker said the money would be sent to New York headquarters and that 25 per cent would be returned to the local chapter for patient service.

The series of M-D carnivals being held in the area were spontaneous, Chief Parker said. The idea originated in Baltimore and Washington and was intended to assist M-D drives in those areas. However, local children picked up the idea and it was sanctioned by the national M-D headquarters.

The Bowman's Addition carnival was headed by Barbara J. Michael and Kathy Hook. Supervisers were Mrs. Gilbert Kerns, Mrs. David Lease, assisted by Glenda Shanholtz, Tony Beckley, Pat Weaver, Duane Boyd, Rita Weaver, Rosalee Hook and Mary Weaver.

TAEGU, Korea (UPI) — At least 10 persons were reported killed and 29 injured Wednesday when a train crashed into a bus at a crossing about 40 miles from here.

Area Children Donate $34 To M-D

Over $34 was collected at a M-D Carnival sponsored by children in Bowman's Addition, and turned over to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman of Allegany-Garrett Muscular Dystrophy Chapter.

Chief Parker said the money would be sent to New York headquarters and that 25 per cent would be returned to the local chapter for patient service.

The series of M-D carnivals being held in the area were spontaneous, Chief Parker said. The idea originated in Baltimore and Washington and was intended to assist M-D drives in those areas. However, local children picked up the idea and it was sanctioned by the national M-D headquarters.

The Bowman's Addition carnival was headed by Barbara J. Michael and Kathy Hook. Supervisers were Mrs. Gilbert Kerns, Mrs. David Lease, assisted by Glenda Shanholtz, Tony Beckley, Pat Weaver, Duane Boyd, Rita Weaver, Rosalee Hook and Mary Weaver.

Kiwanis Club Entertains French Youths

KEYSER — Kiwanis' program of international relations took a major step forward Wednesday evening when four traveling youths from France spoke to members on subjects ranging from food and fashions to governmental policies and U. S.-French relations.

Guests were Jean Mandelbaum and Jean Paul Lamenardie, both from Toulouse; Claude Mamet, Norteaux, near Switzerland, and Claude Dabasse, from Castelsarrasin, near Toulouse.

Mandelbaum, primary speaker for the group, was introduced by John Dark, host for the visitors and a former classmate of Mandelbaum in Muskegon, Mich., where the latter attended high school as an exchange student.

All of the young men are graduates of a business school in Paris.

The group can converse in nine tongues and three of them speak four languages fluently. Mandelbaum has traveled in 50 countries, serving as a guide, interpreter, exchange student, and with the French Embassy in Japan.

The quartet is enroute to South America for experience in international business before beginning a required 18 months of military service in their homeland.

Mandelbaum said he and his friends would then feel better qualified to decide what their chosen profession would be, what course they might follow in the export-import market; become acquainted with the better hotels of the world as part of a travel agency; become more familiar with spoken languages; and "have a good time."

He said pretiminary work during the past year had resulted in the French government becoming interested in their project and assigning them a mission to Latin America in order to find new markets and later a Manufacturer's Association offered its financial support.

The group will help organize a chain of outlets for some 650 French manufacturers.

In addition to discussing some of the products to be exported, the youths exchanged with the Kiwanians views of New York City and the U. S., comparison of topography and personal interest in the home; wage scales and social security benefits; education, French reaction to DeGaulle, functions of the Communist party in France and the difference in food and customs.

An interclub meeting is planned next Thursday at Charles Town.

On Way To Latin American Mission

These four French youths who are en route to Latin America were guests of the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday night. They are, left to right, Jean Mandelbaum, Claude Mamet, Claude Dabasse and Jean Paul Lamenardie.

First Aid Class For Scouts Is Held In Keyser

KEYSER — The first class of Red Cross First Aid instruction for Boy Scouts and interested adults began last evening at the Keyser Fire Hall.

Lester Oates, local Red Cross district training director, has announced the agenda for the initial class with registration of Scouts and adults to precede the first part of classroom work. Each youth who desires to apply for merit badge will be required to fill out the necessary application form for approval by individual scout masters.

Following the registration, for record of attendance and training received, the group began the first session for the basic fundamentals of the standard first aid course.

Richard Schade, who will assist in teaching portions of the specialized training, pointed out that notebook and pen are necessary for each individual to outline the facts as presented for testing and review of previous classes.

Boy Scouts will be required to attend in uniform.

There will be eight two-hour classes in the same location each week on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Bookmobile Schedule Set In Mineral

KEYSER—Personnel for operation of the bookmobile unit in Mineral county has been selected and a tentative schedule has been approved by the executive library board. Service will begin Monday.

Mrs. Molly B. Shelton, Arnold Street, has been hired by the library trustees as bookmobile librarian and Guy Adams, Fort Ashby Road, will be the driver.

Mrs. Shelton is a native of Keyser and graduate of West Virginia University. Adams has been a lifetime resident of the county; is still engaged in farming and is a retired school bus driver with 12 years experience. He studied vocational agriculture at WVU for two years.

Library officials maintain that August 6 will be a "red-letter day" for the community. Mrs. Mary Handlan, regional librarian, said that the Mineral County Court, City Council, Mineral County School Board and the County United Fund have nurtured the public library for many years.

Beginning July 1, the "baby has come of age." The Mineral County Court has set aside $6,600 for library service; the city has passed a bond levy guaranteeing $3,600 a year for three years; the Farmers and Merchants Bank is giving its former bank building to the city for a public library as soon as it moves to its new quarters, and the West Virginia Library Commission is supplying the new $8,900 bookmobile with 10,000 new books for local use, paying most of the salaries for the bookmobile librarian and clerk.

Following is a schedule of runs to be made every two weeks, beginning August 6.

Monday, Antioch Church, 9:30 to 10 a. m.; Burlington Post Office, 10:30 to noon; Headsville (Borror's Store), 1 to 2 p.m., and Fountain Church, 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.

W. Va. Allots Record Sum For Medical Aid

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— West Virginia will have nearly $8 million during the $1962-63 fiscal year for operation of the state's Medical Assistance for the Aged (MAA program, the State Welfare Department said Thursday.

Welfare Commissioner W. Bernard Smith said the money — a record high for the program—included a $1,045,038 balance in the funds as of June 30; $1,300,000 appropriated by the 1962 Legislature for the new fiscal year, and $5,536,035 in federal matching funds.

The $7,901,074 total would provide more than $770,000 a month for the remaining 11 months of the fiscal year, but an undisclosed amount of unpaid hospital, doctor, and druggist bills still is to be deducted from the total.

The largest expenditure for any one month was last November when $539,833 was spent just before Smith ordered a sharp cutback in the two-year-old program because funds were believed to be running short.

Smith said he was "gratified" that a relatively large amount of money will be available because the winter months are expected to bring an increase in the number of MAA cases.

"The money on hand makes it certain that all of these people will be able to be taken care of," he added.

Kiwanis Club Entertains French Youths

KEYSER — Kiwanis' program of international relations took a major step forward Wednesday evening when four traveling youths from France spoke to members on subjects ranging from food and fashions to governmental policies and U. S.-French relations.

Guests were Jean Mandelbaum and Jean Paul Lamenardie, both from Toulouse; Claude Mamet, Norteaux, near Switzerland, and Claude Dabasse, from Castelsarrasin, near Toulouse.

Mandelbaum, primary speaker for the group, was introduced by John Dark, host for the visitors and a former classmate of Mandelbaum in Muskegon, Mich., where the latter attended high school as an exchange student.

All of the young men are graduates of a business school in Paris.

The group can converse in nine tongues and three of them speak four languages fluently. Mandelbaum has traveled in 50 countries, serving as a guide, interpreter, exchange student, and with the French Embassy in Japan.

The quartet is enroute to South America for experience in international business before beginning a required 18 months of military service in their homeland.

Mandelbaum said he and his friends would then feel better qualified to decide what their chosen profession would be, what course they might follow in the export-import market; become acquainted with the better hotels of the world as part of a travel agency; become more familiar with spoken languages; and "have a good time."

He said pretiminary work during the past year had resulted in the French government becoming interested in their project and assigning them a mission to Latin America in order to find new markets and later a Manufacturer's Association offered its financial support.

The group will help organize a chain of outlets for some 650 French manufacturers.

In addition to discussing some of the products to be exported, the youths exchanged with the Kiwanians views of New York City and the U. S., comparison of topography and personal interest in the home; wage scales and social security benefits; education, French reaction to DeGaulle, functions of the Communist party in France and the difference in food and customs.

An interclub meeting is planned next Thursday at Charles Town.

On Way To Latin American Mission

These four French youths who are en route to Latin America were guests of the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday night. They are, left to right, Jean Mandelbaum, Claude Mamet, Claude Dabasse and Jean Paul Lamenardie.

First Aid Class For Scouts Is Held In Keyser

KEYSER — The first class of Red Cross First Aid instruction for Boy Scouts and interested adults began last evening at the Keyser Fire Hall.

Lester Oates, local Red Cross district training director, has announced the agenda for the initial class with registration of Scouts and adults to precede the first part of classroom work. Each youth who desires to apply for merit badge will be required to fill out the necessary application form for approval by individual scout masters.

Following the registration, for record of attendance and training received, the group began the first session for the basic fundamentals of the standard first aid course.

Richard Schade, who will assist in teaching portions of the specialized training, pointed out that notebook and pen are necessary for each individual to outline the facts as presented for testing and review of previous classes.

Boy Scouts will be required to attend in uniform.

There will be eight two-hour classes in the same location each week on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Bookmobile Schedule Set In Mineral

KEYSER—Personnel for operation of the bookmobile unit in Mineral county has been selected and a tentative schedule has been approved by the executive library board. Service will begin Monday.

Mrs. Molly B. Shelton, Arnold Street, has been hired by the library trustees as bookmobile librarian and Guy Adams, Fort Ashby Road, will be the driver.

Mrs. Shelton is a native of Keyser and graduate of West Virginia University. Adams has been a lifetime resident of the county; is still engaged in farming and is a retired school bus driver with 12 years experience. He studied vocational agriculture at WVU for two years.

Library officials maintain that August 6 will be a "red-letter day" for the community. Mrs. Mary Handlan, regional librarian, said that the Mineral County Court, City Council, Mineral County School Board and the County United Fund have nurtured the public library for many years.

Beginning July 1, the "baby has come of age." The Mineral County Court has set aside $6,600 for library service; the city has passed a bond levy guaranteeing $3,600 a year for three years; the Farmers and Merchants Bank is giving its former bank building to the city for a public library as soon as it moves to its new quarters, and the West Virginia Library Commission is supplying the new $8,900 bookmobile with 10,000 new books for local use, paying most of the salaries for the bookmobile librarian and clerk.

Following is a schedule of runs to be made every two weeks, beginning August 6.

Monday, Antioch Church, 9:30 to 10 a. m.; Burlington Post Office, 10:30 to noon; Headsville (Borror's Store), 1 to 2 p.m., and Fountain Church, 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.

Tuesday, New Creek (Swisher's Store), 9:15 to 10 a. m.; Elk Garden, (Norman's Store), 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; Beryl, 1:45 to 2:30 p. m., and Piedmont (parking lot across from the old post office) 2:45 to 4 p. m.

Wednesday, Reese's Mill (Smith's House), 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.; Fort Ashby (intersection of Routes 46 and 28), 11 a. m. to 1 p. m.; Alt's Store (Route 46), 1:30 to 2:30 p. m., and Limestone Road (near the school), 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.

Thursday, Ridgeley, 10 to 11:30 a. m.; Furnace Acres, 12:30 to 1:30 p. m.; Patterson Creek (Kern's Store), 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.

W. Va. Allots Record Sum For Medical Aid

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia will have nearly $8 million during the $1962-63 fiscal year for operation of the state's Medical Assistance for the Aged (MAA program, the State Welfare Department said Thursday.

Welfare Commissioner W. Bernard Smith said the money — a record high for the program—included a $1,045,038 balance in the funds as of June 30; $1,300,000 appropriated by the 1962 Legislature for the new fiscal year, and $5,536,035 in federal matching funds.

The $7,901,074 total would provide more than $770,000 a month for the remaining 11 months of the fiscal year, but an undisclosed amount of unpaid hospital, doctor, and druggist bills still is to be deducted from the total.

The largest expenditure for any one month was last November when $539,833 was spent just before Smith ordered a sharp cutback in the two-year-old program because funds were believed to be running short.

Smith said he was "gratified" that a relatively large amount of money will be available because the winter months are expected to bring an increase in the number of MAA cases.

"The money on hand makes it certain that all of these people will be able to be taken care of," he added.

Sewage Course Set

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —A five-day study course featuring lectures on laboratory techniques, hydraulics, chemical treatment of wastes, and sewage disposal problems will begin at West Virginia University Monday. More than 30 sewage plant operators from throughout the state are expected to attend the course sponsored by the College of Engineering, the state Water Pollution Control Association and the state Health Department.

$2.6 Million Sought For West Virginia Hospitals

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Health Department plans to seek $2.6 million in federal aid for construction of hospitals and medical facilities during the current fiscal year if Congress passes the appropriations bill now before it.

Health Director N. H. Dyer said Thursday his department has before it applications representing $7,658,000 in hospital construction.

The proposed projects include a new 40-bed general hospital in Madison, Boone County; 99 additional beds and a diagnostic and treatment center at the Charleston Memorial Hospital; a diagnostic and treatment center at McMillan Hospital in Charleston; and a new 50-bed hospital in Buckhannon to replace facilities that can no longer be used.

The federal aid would come from funds set up under the Hill-Burton Act. Currently, these federal funds provide $9.5 million of nearly $21 million worth of hospital construction approved or actually underway in West Virginia.

Chronic disease facilities rate first priority, under the state's priority program, since only 25 per cent of the number of beds needed in the state for this type of patient are available.

Similar shortages exist in nursing homes, public health centers, diagnostic and treatment centers, mental hospitals and rehabilitation centers.

Playhouse Lists New Selection

'Around the World in 80 Days" will feature John Stratton as Phileas, a newcomer to the Mountain Playhouse.

Featured in this week's play are Lee Sanders and Marvin Ramage and Charles Crain and Wendy MacKenzie in supporting roles.

Damage Suit Settled

A friendly damage suit involving a two-car accident August 19, 1961 on Dingle Hill has been settled out of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Marcellus and Margaret Lewis, 113 South Lee Street, parents of Marshall W. Lewis, 19, who was injured in the collision, were plaintiffs in the case.

Defendants were William R. and Gerald B. Davis of 436 Pine Avenue; Nancy R. and James F. Hilton, of 432 Central Avenue.

The settlement was for $1,000, the amount asked in the suit. Lewis was a passenger in a car operated by James F. Hilton. It collided with a car being driven by Gerald Davis.

City Must Pay Prisoners' Board

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A municipality must pay the county jail costs of a person arrested by city policemen if charges against the person involve violations of a municipal ordinance, State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson said Thursday.

Robertson told Logan County Prosecutor O. D. Damron that the person can be arraigned either before the mayor or a justice of the peace whose office is in the city. However, Robertson said the city would not have to reimburse the county for jail expenses if he were arrested under a state law and confined in the county jail.

NLRB Vote Set

CINCINNATI (UPI)—A collective bargaining election will be scheduled soon for truck drivers and warehouse employes of the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. of Beckley, W. Va., the National Labor Relations Board regional office announced here.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd said Thursday the Senate has approved a conference report on the Health, Education and Welfare appropriation bill containing $200,000 for research projects in West Virginia.

The money will go toward an Ohio River Water Control project to study certain lung diseases. Each will receive $100,000.

Byrd had originally amended the bill to grant $520,000 for the Beckley project and $500,000 for the Wheeling project.

$2.6 Million Sought For West Virginia Hospitals

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Health Department plans to seek $2.6 million in federal aid for construction of hospitals and medical facilities during the current fiscal year if Congress passes the appropriations bill now before it.

Health Director N. H. Dyer said Thursday his department has before it applications representing $7,658,000 in hospital construction.

The proposed projects include a new 40-bed general hospital in Madison, Boone County; 99 additional beds and a diagnostic and treatment center at the Charleston Memorial Hospital; a diagnostic and treatment center at McMillan Hospital in Charleston; and a new 50-bed hospital in Buckhannon to replace facilities that can no longer be used.

The federal aid would come from funds set up under the Hill-Burton Act. Currently, these federal funds provide $9.5 million of nearly $21 million worth of hospital construction approved or actually underway in West Virginia.

Chronic disease facilities rate first priority, under the state's priority program, since only 25 per cent of the number of beds needed in the state for this type of patient are available.

Similar shortages exist in nursing homes, public health centers, diagnostic and treatment centers, mental hospitals and rehabilitation centers.

Damage Suit Settled

A friendly damage suit involving a two-car accident August 19, 1961 on Dingle Hill has been settled out of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Marcellus and Margaret Lewis, 113 South Lee Street, parents of Marshall W. Lewis, 19, who was injured in the collision, were plaintiffs in the case.

Defendants were William R. and Gerald B. Davis of 436 Pine Avenue; Nancy R. and James F. Hilton, of 432 Central Avenue.

The settlement was for $1,000, the amount asked in the suit. Lewis was a passenger in a car operated by James F. Hilton. It collided with a car being driven by Gerald Davis.

City Must Pay Prisoners' Board

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A municipality must pay the county jail costs of a person arrested by city policemen if charges against the person involve violations of a municipal ordinance, State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson said Thursday.

Robertson told Logan County Prosecutor O. D. Damron that the person can be arraigned either before the mayor or a justice of the peace whose office is in the city. However, Robertson said the city would not have to reimburse the county for jail expenses if he were arrested under a state law and confined in the county jail.

Latin America Needs A Tonic

If gloom is the prevailing mood at Alliance for Progress headquarters in Washington these days, some satisfaction should be plucked from the realization that it did the best it could. Idealists, who effervesced with visions of the accomplishments a $20 billion injection would chalk up in one short decade, nurse a hangover.

South American political temperament is changing, but much more slowly than some Alliance enthusiasts predicted. The one-man dictatorship has largely disappeared. Even in the case of Cuba, there are increasing rumors that the bearded one is little more than a figurehead.

More frequently than not, dictatorship is still the rule, but it now takes the form of a military junta or other commission-type statism. The popular election has not become popular. Indeed, it is feared by some friends of freedom, who are not at all certain the populace of some countries is yet capable of self-government.

A great amount of self-reliance is required to form a successfully democratic plebiscite; responsibility, literacy and a break from the overpowering ties of oppression.

Peru's currently ruling military junta, the similar minor revolution which struck Argentina in March, and the evolution toward all-powerful statism in Brazil over recent months are symptomatic of South America's inability to produce representative government in one giant step.

What is needed more than any other tonic in the Latin countries is a return to private hands of the tools of production, the farmlands and the major portion of the income derived therefrom. Recharging the economy from the foundations quickly enough will set in motion a resurgence of initiative and desire for improvement which will not fail to weaken the despotic tradition.

It is a movement which cannot be primed by government-to-government aid.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Politicians Must Fib

Politicians are forced by the circumstances of their trade to live from day to day. It is the philosopher and the historian who risk forecasting the course of events and who often take a stand which opposes the current fashions. Statesmen sometimes gamble on principles, but the politician must deal with what is before him.

Sometimes history and even public opinion reverse themselves, usually after the politician is dead and what seemed to be so very wrong when it was done, may, in later years, prove to have been right. To this, Herbert Hoover is an exception, for he has lived long enough for public opinion to have reversed itself and he who was regarded as a failure as President is now one of the most beloved men. On August 10, he will have a birthday party in West Branch, Iowa, where he was born and many will come from near and far to do him honor.

A figure such as Hitler will be judged by history a century or more from now very differently from today. However, this much is certain: he was a politician and therefore dealt with immediate events. He, like most politicians in all of history, lied freely when he needed to and men accepted his lies. So astute a student of political currents in 1933 as Walter Lippman said of a speech that Hitler delivered:

"The Chancellor stated that 'nevertheless no German government will of its own volition break an agreement that cannot be abrogated except by substituting a better one. However, this acknowledgement of the legal character of such a treaty can only be a general one. Not only the victor has claims to the rights granted therein but also the vanquished. The right to demand revision of this treaty, however, is founded on the treaty itself. As the motif and measure of its demand, Germany desires nothing but the experiences thus far attained, and the undeniable findings of logical, critical reason.' Unless I am greatly mistaken, this is the most definite pledge that has yet been given by any German government that it would pursue its claim for revision within the framework of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

I do not quote this to point to a failing of Walter Lippmann as a prophet. I admire him too much for that. Rather, I cite this as an example of how dangerous it is even for the brightest of men to trust to the words of politicians who always say what they need to say at the moment and change their minds when they need to change their minds.

I make this point as there is a tendency among our people to assume that because a man is in public life, he will lead rather than bend to the common will. As a matter of fact, the theory behind the vote is that the chosen person should represent those who choose him. We are about to choose candidates for the 1962 Election—Governors, U.S. Senators, members of Congress. What do we expect of them? When they run for office, they will promise to serve their constituencies and each constituent will assume that he is the one who must be served. This is, of course, nonsense. No man could possibly serve so many masters.

Representative government is then not an acceptance of leadership but rather a matter of compromise. In fact, our government is so organized on a system of checks and balances among the Executive, the Senate and the House of Representatives that compromise is a built-in method. Without such a process we should be standing absolutely still at all times. If the people then assume that because a politician said so-and-so in a campaign, he is to be trusted to hold to that position forever, they are bound to be disappointed, for so adamant and obdurate a person would fail utterly to accomplish anything under our system.

As the 1962 campaign really commences, therefore, we need to worry less about what men say and more about their character and what they have done in the past and their political associations.

We dare not assume that any politician can live up to his promises, but we can be sure that a man of character and decency will not betray his country. It is so easy, in politics, really to do nothing but to say much.

'Think You Could Try It Just Once?'

What Has Happened To Party Discipline?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—On the surface the Senate is in a state of utter confusion. Actually, it is reflecting the breakdown of the Democratic Party and a seeming inability to follow the guidance or advice of either the President or the duly chosen leaders of the Upper House.

Theoretically, the row in the Senate is about the bill to let private companies develop a communications system by using satellites like Telstar. But the issue isn't broad enough to cause all the hullabaloo it has in the last few days. President Kennedy is for the measure, and it would be passed by an overwhelming majority it could be brought to a vote. For, after all, there is as good a reason why telephone service by satellites should be left in the hands of private companies, subject as usual to government regulation of rates, as there is for telephone communication by private companies to be maintained, as it is, under the sea or by direct radio.

The bill to deal with the satellite system of telephone communication has, however, afforded an excuse for an outbreak by the so-called "liberals." Among them therfe is no real solidarity or even any excessive amount of political virtue. Some are sore because President Kennedy isn't channeling enough money to their states in an election year. Some are upset about legislative measures for which they want a preference that they are not getting. On the whole, it seems strange to see a filibuster conducted by those who like to feel that the term "liberal" applies to them. For they have hitherto condemned it as the merely unrighteous tactic of Southerners intent on blocking "civil rights" legislation. What it proves, of course, is that everything depends on whose ox is being gored.

Perhaps the most oft-repeated comment heard about the plight of the Senate is that it misses Lyndon Johnson's leadership. As Vice President, he is not able to do what he did as Majority Leader. The story one hears is that Mr. Johnson used to plead and cajole and "deal and deal." He had quite a resourceful array of maneuvers and, besides, was intimately in touch with the late Speaker Sam Rayburn so that, when it was desirable to push a legislative measure to the front, the tall Texan could accomplish that feat with a a few telephone calls across tne Capitol.

Senator Mike Mansfield, the new Majority Leader, is a man of a different type. He doesn't like some of the machinations of so-called practical politics. He likes to feel that legislators should be above tactics that appeal to their materialistic sense. At times he seems frustrated and disappointed and like a man who wishes he were not called upon to make deals.

But as the weeks go on, the grievances pile up. Coincidentally, the White House influence tends to fluctuate. Also, whenever a President's curve of popularity in the Gallup public-opinion polls takes a decided drop, Congress seems somehow to exhibit a more independent or at least a less subservient attitude toward the White House emissaries who spend their time practicing the art of cajolery on Capitol Hill.

Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, Democrat, who is regarded as one of the powerful members of the so-called "liberal" bloc, made a significant comment in this connection on the radio the other day as he was being interviewed by his fellow Republican in the group, Senator Kenneth Keating of New York. Mr. Douglas declared:

"Now the truth of the matter is that we have not two parties in Congress, but four parties. We have a Liberal Democratic Party, which is overwhelmingly predominant in the North and the West, and a Conservative Democratic Party, which is overwhelmingly predominant in the South. And we have a Conservative Republican Party, which is overwhelmingly predominant in most sections of the country with a small but very fine liberal wing largely confined to the Northeastern states. This is the basic difficulty. We cleavage—and most of our Southern Democrats vote with the Conservative Republicans. It is this bi-partisan alliance — which I have called the 'unholy alliance' —which has dominated Congress for 24 years."

The figure of speech didn't, however, stand up too well this week, as it was the Northern "liberals" and the Southern conservatives who joined together in an alliance to oppose the use of the cloture rule which would terminate the filibuster. Does that prove that the so-called "liberals" and so-called "conservatives" are really no different under the skin? Or does it prove that each case stands alone and that basic principles and party discipline have become old-fashioned in an era of irresponsible government?

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

POLITICAL ISSUE — The state of the national economy is bound to become a prime political issue in this fall's election campaigns. In fact, it is this prospect that has Washington thinking so hard and saying so much about economic conditions.

Democrats in Congress, who must face the electorate a few months hence, are showing signs of restiveness over delays in administration actions to head off a recession. They're applying some pretty hard pressure on the White House to "do something."

It's hard to remember when the capital has been in such a state about business conditions when the economic indicators show only a leveling off — not a decline — in activity.

The present concern is traceable directly to the dramatic drop in stock prices of last May 28. It called public attention to a condition that had been going on in a quiet way for four months. And ever since, business conditions have been reported in much the same manner as a sensational trial or sports event.

It is this extremely high level of public interest as much as the event itself that makes business conditions such an explosive political issue. And it is a condition tailored perfectly to candidates who plan to run for office on a platform of opposition to the Kennedy administration.

Regardless of which way the economy moves from here, President Kennedy has been tagged with responsibility for the national economic reversal, and what he does about it will play a large part in the political makeup of the Senate and House next year.

Rep. Thomas Uses His Pursestring Power To Give Contract To AT&T

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is on vacation. In his absence, the Washington Merry-Go-Round will be written by his associate, Jack Anderson.

WASHINGTON—A quick telephone call from Congressman Albert Thomas, Texas Democrat, recently threw the Space Agency's contracting machinery into reverse, overturned the near-unanimous recommendation of the experts, and produced another fat contract for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Apparently, the telephone combine wasn't satisfied with trying to corner the commercial communications business in outer space. It also wanted to run the telephone service on the ground at the new Houston Space Center.

The government negotiators favored awarding the contract to General Telephone, but Thomas wanted it to go to Southwestern Bell, an AT & T subsidiary.

As chairman of the House subcommittee which appropriates space funds, Thomas is treated with greater deference around the Space Agency than John Glenn. Indeed, the agency located its space flight center in Houston, an awkward distance from the space activities at Cape Canaveral, largely because Thomas wanted it in his home town.

His recent call about the telephone contract was taken by Space Administrator James Webb's executive assistant, Col. R. P. Young.

"I would like to provide some free, unsolicited, and unbiased advice," purred the Congressman over the phone. "I have heard that there is a controversy developing between General Telephone and Bell Telephone in Texas as to who will provide service to the Houston Space Flight Center.

"I recommend that you go to Bell for the service," he added, and his tone was final.

Colonel Young politely thanked the Congressman and promised to pass his recommendation to "the proper persons." Among those hastily notified: Space Chief Webb, Deputy Chief Hugh Dryden, Associate Chief Robert Seamans Jr., and Legislative Chief Paul Dembling.

Wrong Advice

A five-man advisory committee had already recommended unanimously that the contract go to General Telephone, which had offered cheaper, faster service.

But the space chiefs, obviously hoping for different advice, set up a new, five-man advisory committee. This came back with the same unwanted advice—namely, that General Telephone should operate the phone system at the space center.

All AT&T picked up was one lone advocate, who was outvoted four to one.

What happened next is obscured in secrecy. Only this much is known: E. A. Gillam, the contracting officer, ignored all the advice and awarded the contract to AT&T.

He flatly refused to discuss his action with this column.

"Does this contract involve national security?" I asked him. "Is it a military secret?"

"No", he confessed, "a telephone contract isn't a security matter."

Asked why the public couldn't be told about it, he finally replied: "It is considered sensitive."

As for Congressman Thomas, this wasn't the first time he had used his influence to help AT&T. A year ago, he invited John L. Moore, then the General Services Administrator, to a stag party in honor of AT&T Chairman Frederick Kappel.

Thomas also holds the purse strings to the General Services Administration. But Moore, apparently thinking this was purely a social occasion, was slow in accepting.

Thomas called three times. The third time, he made it clear that he expected to see Moore at the party.

It happened that AT&T and Western Union were competing at the time for a GSA contract to establish a nation-wide telecommunications network for the civilian side of the federal government.

Moore dutifully made his command appearance at the Congressman's party, and shortly thereafter the contract was awarded to AT & T but a GSA spokesman swears there was "no political interference."

When the wives of Senators get together, their favorite subject of gossip is the lady they would most like to be—the First Lady.

They always agree that Jackie Kennedy is beautiful, charming, and cultured. But they also whisper that she wears her skirts too tight and her hair too plain.

The hottest item of Gossip, however, is Jackie's political naivete. When she was a Senator's wife, she seldom visited the Senate and took little interest in the political hurly-burly.

At a recent get-together, one wife breathlessly told of her latest encounter with the First Lady.

Jackie asked the woman where her husband's office was located. Upon learning it was in the old Senuate office building, Jackie bubbled: "Oh, my husband was in the Old Senate Office Building. I loved it because it was so old."

'We had no choice," replied the Senator's wife dryly. Any Senatorial spouse worth her ruffles is supposed to know that Senate offices are assigned by seniority.

But Jackie seemed puzzled, so the Senator's wife had to explain the seniority system.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Everything went bad until we reached the 13th tee. Then it got worse. We had hacked our way back and forth across every hole at Bamm Hollow, topping the ball, whiffing, slicing, hooking — Sometimes we found we could pitch further over a green than we could drive. Kelly said: "Why don't we tee off with a nine iron?"

I gave her a glance which can only be described as withering. The ball was teed up on the 13th. I looked at the ball. It looked back. A few ants crawled upon it. They know the safe places. The green was 430 yards away. Dead ahead was a square lake. On the right was a ditch, edging the fairway. Above the ditch was a small mountain, garnished with old oaks. To the left was more lake, and beyond it, the 14th fairway.

I removed a spoon from the bag. If you are going to miss a ball, you might as well miss with a good-looking club. Mrs. B. crouched behind the golf cart. If this was supposed to make me feel nervous, it worked. "Use an old ball," she said, "in case." I was using an old ball, a cobblestone given to me by Bill Armstrong. It had a teardrop shape. It looked as though it had been stepped on by Jackie Gleason.

"Don't forget your don'ts" my wife said. So, as I stood in front of the ball, waggling my hips, hitching my feet, twitching my neck muscles, lifting and lowering the club, I began the countdown. "Don't sway the body. Don't life the head. Don't close the face of the club. Don't permit more than three knuckles of the hand to show. Don't be too far from the ball. Don't be too near. Don't hurry the backswing. Don't lock the knees. Don't hit the ball."

So I swung and missed. I'm a left-hander. This makes golf goofier. I swung again. The ball went straight up in the air, hung there, and fell into the lake. It wasn't worth looking for, but I looked anyway. We stood at the edge of the water. The lake, except for a little bull's eye ripple, was quiet. In the middle, I thought I saw the round head of a man floating with a peaked cap on the head. It wasn't that hot a day, so I ignored it. Kelly said: "Is that a man out there?" It was just a head, a chin and a cap. No shoulders, no arms, no body.

I took a chance. "How do you do?" I said to the head. The head nodded. It was a real one. "I must be losing my mind," I said to the head. The head smiled. "I tread the bottom of the lake," it said, "for golf balls." I decided not to count that first shot.

We went back to the tee. I teed up with a brand new Vito Gaeta ball. This one is round. I hauled off, not thinking of any of the don'ts, and hit it. It went straight out, across the lake. On the far side, it made a right turn, climbing, cleared the ditch, the little mountain, the trees, and landed on the 17th fairway.

"Some shot, hey?" I said, and she shrugged and said: "Depends on where you're going." A very jealous woman, Mrs. B. I went walking for the ball as she hit off. She hits with all the power of an anemic baby waving bye-bye. The ball crossed the lake, bounced straight and true, and died on the fairway.

I found my ball in the mountain, and hit it with a four wood, after giving it a couple of kicks to get it out of the rough. It flew back across the 17th, cleared the mountain, the ditch, the lake, and landed between two old men on the 14th. I was 225 yards from the green. The old men glared at me. I glared back.

I wound the wood back around my ears, swung, and hit the ball. By accident, it sailed diagonally across the 14th missing an agile old lady by inches, landed on the apron of the proper green, bounced up, and died six feet from the pin.

Kelly made her second shot into the ditch. I had to help her look for it because it is the gentlemanly thing to do, although I seldom feel gentlemanly. "Why don't you learn how to hit them?" I said. She shook her head. "Where are you, Arnold?" she said sweetly.

"Oh," I said sarcastically, "Funny, funny. I happen to be on the green. I lie three." She kept swinging. I knew she didn't believe me, so I told her I would not tell a fib about a golf score because my guardian angel was watching. "You're the only man I know," she said, "who needs two."

When we got to the green, I got to hands and knees and studied the situation, the way the professionals do on television. I rapped the ball and it staggered into the cup for a four.

Just then, Tom Steinbach, the manager of Bamm Hollow, passed by in a cart. "How are you doing?" he said. "Just fair," I said. "Par". . .

Anti-Ringworm Agent Relieves Acute Gout

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Griseofulvin, the anti-ringworm agent, is effective also in the treatment of acute gout. Dr. Stanley L. Wallace and Dr. Anthony W. Nissen of Brooklyn, N. Y., relieved the inflammatory process in 15 of 20 victims of the disease.

This is understandable because griseofulvin has a chemical structure resembling colchicine, an old reliable for more than 1,500 years for the acute attack. Improvement occurs within a few days following which there is an interval of comfort lasting months or years. In contrast to griseofulvin, colchicine does not have the slightest effect upon ringworm, even in large doses.

The beneficial effects of colchicine come from its ability to ease swelling and inflammation in the involved joint. The painful and exquisitely tender big toe, for example, begins to feel better in 24 hours or less, provided adequate doses are used. Griseofulvin does the same.

But the period of freedom from pain gets shorter and shorter and the acute attack returns in time unless the urid acid level of the blood is kept down via diet or a drug such as probenecid.

Tablets containing a mixture of colchicine and probenecid are employed frequently in treating gout. The first takes care of the symptoms and the second reduces the uric acid level. Two tablets a day of the combination decrease the period of disability and this is a small price to pay for relief from this century old plague.

The kings of old and the famous victims of gout would have given their fortune for these modern remedies. But there is no convincing evidence that gout is caused by high living — a concept fostered by writers and cartoonists from way back when. It is a metabolic disorder.

When probenecid is used, the excess uric acid is eliminated by the kidneys. Drink at least three quarts of liquid a day to keep this acid from crystalizing in the urine and forming stones.

SOBERING UP

F. A. writes: What can you give a drunken person to sober him up?

REPLY

Stimulants such as coffee help occasionally and the same can be said of a cold shower or an emetic that makes the individual upchuck. Tranquilizers are more modern remedies. They quiet the individual and encourage him to sleep it off. Others favor the older paraldehyde, chloral hydrate, or the barbiturates. But there is no good way to sober up a man who has had too much to drink. The alcohol is in the blood and nothing can be done to make the body eliminate the chemical at a faster rate.

HEAD BLOOD

F. R. P. writes: Please explain the effects of strangulation of blood in the head.

REPLY

Blood in the head does not strangulate but thoughts do occasionally. The flow of blood may be arrested when an artery is compressed by a tumor or is blocked by a clot.

SAFE DELIVERY

Mrs. O. G. writes: What is considered the safest way to deliver a baby?

REPLY

The natural way — provided complications do not exist.

SIGHT AFTER SURGERY

N. L. writes: Can a person see good after a cataract operation?

REPLY

Yes, with special lenses, and provided the eyes are normal otherwise.

POLYP IN STOMACH

L. E. F. writes: What is done with a stomach polyp?

REPLY

It should be removed because of the possibility of malignancy.

TOMORROW: Changes in moles.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An irate wife nailed her errant husband trying to sneak into the house undetected at four A.M. "How dare you," she demanded, "barge in at this hour half drunk?" The unfortunate husband mumbled, "Sorry, my chickadee, but I ran out of money."

"Together," the excellent publication of the Methodist Church, tells of an old-time circuit-riding preacher who inadvertently aroused the ire of the biggest bully in a frontier town. The bully rode his horse into the back yard of the preacher's temporary abode and announced, "Parson, you've got me to lick or get out pronto from this neck of the woods."

The parson calmly seized the bully by the seat of his pants and the nape of his neck and deposited him over the fence. The bully picked himself up gingerly and meekly murmured, "And now, Parson, if you'll hand me my mare over the fence, too, I'll be proceeding on my way."

A reader who doesn't seem to care how he spends his time has fallen to speculating on how the ghost of Hamlet's father would behave if he came back to earth today. "I can see him now," he boasts, "registering at the Ectoplazma Hotel, breakfasting on Ghost Toasties, riding out to Aqueduct in time for the second wraith, and telling friends, "I specter see one more revival of 'Charlie's Haunt' before I dissolve."

What our reader doesn't seem to know is that his ghost has moved permanently to New York. He's taken apparition with Phantom Books.

Latin America Needs A Tonic

If gloom is the prevailing mood at Alliance for Progress headquarters in Washington these days, some satisfaction should be plucked from the realization that it did the best it could. Idealists, who effervesced with visions of the accomplishments a $20 billion injection would chalk up in one short decade, nurse a hangover.

South American political temperament is changing, but much more slowly than some Alliance enthusiasts predicted. The one-man dictatorship has largely disappeared. Even in the case of Cuba, there are increasing rumors that the bearded one is little more than a figurehead.

More frequently than not, dictatorship is still the rule, but it now takes the form of a military junta or other commission-type statism. The popular election has not become popular. Indeed, it is feared by some friends of freedom, who are not at all certain the populace of some countries is yet capable of self-government.

A great amount of self-reliance is required to form a successfully democratic plebiscite; responsibility, literacy and a break from the overpowering ties of oppression.

Peru's currently ruling military junta, the similar minor revolution which struck Argentina in March, and the evolution toward all-powerful statism in Brazil over recent months are symptomatic of South America's inability to produce representative government in one giant step.

What is needed more than any other tonic in the Latin countries is a return to private hands of the tools of production, the farmlands and the major portion of the income derived therefrom. Recharging the economy from the foundations quickly enough will set in motion a resurgence of initiative and desire for improvement which will not fail to weaken the despotic tradition.

It is a movement which cannot be primed by government-to-government aid.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Politicians Must Fib

Politicians are forced by the circumstances of their trade to live from day to day. It is the philosopher and the historian who risk forecasting the course of events and who often take a stand which opposes the current fashions. Statesmen sometimes gamble on principles, but the politician must deal with what is before him.

Sometimes history and even public opinion reverse themselves, usually after the politician is dead and what seemed to be so very wrong when it was done, may, in later years, prove to have been right. To this, Herbert Hoover is an exception, for he has lived long enough for public opinion to have reversed itself and he who was regarded as a failure as President is now one of the most beloved men. On August 10, he will have a birthday party in West Branch, Iowa, where he was born and many will come from near and far to do him honor.

A figure such as Hitler will be judged by history a century or more from now very differently from today. However, this much is certain: he was a politician and therefore dealt with immediate events. He, like most politicians in all of history, lied freely when he needed to and men accepted his lies. So astute a student of political currents in 1933 as Walter Lippman said of a speech that Hitler delivered:

"The Chancellor stated that 'nevertheless no German government will of its own volition break an agreement that cannot be abrogated except by substituting a better one. However, this acknowledgement of the legal character of such a treaty can only be a general one. Not only the victor has claims to the rights granted therein but also the vanquished. The right to demand revision of this treaty, however, is founded on the treaty itself. As the motif and measure of its demand, Germany desires nothing but the experiences thus far attained, and the undeniable findings of logical, critical reason.' Unless I am greatly mistaken, this is the most definite pledge that has yet been given by any German government that it would pursue its claim for revision within the framework of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

I do not quote this to point to a failing of Walter Lippmann as a prophet. I admire him too much for that. Rather, I cite this as an example of how dangerous it is even for the brightest of men to trust to the words of politicians who always say what they need to say at the moment and change their minds when they need to change their minds.

I make this point as there is a tendency among our people to assume that because a man is in public life, he will lead rather than bend to the common will. As a matter of fact, the theory behind the vote is that the chosen person should represent those who choose him. We are about to choose candidates for the 1962 Election—Governors, U.S. Senators, members of Congress. What do we expect of them? When they run for office, they will promise to serve their constituencies and each constituent will assume that he is the one who must be served. This is, of course, nonsense. No man could possibly serve so many masters.

Representative government is then not an acceptance of leadership but rather a matter of compromise. In fact, our government is so organized on a system of checks and balances among the Executive, the Senate and the House of Representatives that compromise is a built-in method. Without such a process we should be standing absolutely still at all times. If the people then assume that because a politician said so-and-so in a campaign, he is to be trusted to hold to that position forever, they are bound to be disappointed, for so adamant and obdurate a person would fail utterly to accomplish anything under our system.

As the 1962 campaign really commences, therefore, we need to worry less about what men say and more about their character and what they have done in the past and their political associations.

We dare not assume that any politician can live up to his promises, but we can be sure that a man of character and decency will not betray his country. It is so easy, in politics, really to do nothing but to say much.

What Has Happened To Party Discipline?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—On the surface the Senate is in a state of utter confusion. Actually, it is reflecting the breakdown of the Democratic Party and a seeming inability to follow the guidance or advice of either the President or the duly chosen leaders of the Upper House.

Theoretically, the row in the Senate is about the bill to let private companies develop a communications system by using satellites like Telstar. But the issue isn't broad enough to cause all the hullabaloo it has in the last few days. President Kennedy is for the measure, and it would be passed by an overwhelming majority it could be brought to a vote. For, after all, there is as good a reason why telephone service by satellites should be left in the hands of private companies, subject as usual to government regulation of rates, as there is for telephone communication by private companies to be maintained, as it is, under the sea or by direct radio.

The bill to deal with the satellite system of telephone communication has, however, afforded an excuse for an outbreak by the so-called "liberals." Among them therfe is no real solidarity or even any excessive amount of political virtue. Some are sore because President Kennedy isn't channeling enough money to their states in an election year. Some are upset about legislative measures for which they want a preference that they are not getting. On the whole, it seems strange to see a filibuster conducted by those who like to feel that the term "liberal" applies to them. For they have hitherto condemned it as the merely unrighteous tactic of Southerners intent on blocking "civil rights" legislation. What it proves, of course, is that everything depends on whose ox is being gored.

Perhaps the most oft-repeated comment heard about the plight of the Senate is that it misses Lyndon Johnson's leadership. As Vice President, he is not able to do what he did as Majority Leader. The story one hears is that Mr. Johnson used to plead and cajole and "deal and deal." He had quite a resourceful array of maneuvers and, besides, was intimately in touch with the late Speaker Sam Rayburn so that, when it was desirable to push a legislative measure to the front, the tall Texan could accomplish that feat with a a few telephone calls across tne Capitol.

Senator Mike Mansfield, the new Majority Leader, is a man of a different type. He doesn't like some of the machinations of so-called practical politics. He likes to feel that legislators should be above tactics that appeal to their materialistic sense. At times he seems frustrated and disappointed and like a man who wishes he were not called upon to make deals.

But as the weeks go on, the grievances pile up. Coincidentally, the White House influence tends to fluctuate. Also, whenever a President's curve of popularity in the Gallup public-opinion polls takes a decided drop, Congress seems somehow to exhibit a more independent or at least a less subservient attitude toward the White House emissaries who spend their time practicing the art of cajolery on Capitol Hill.

Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, Democrat, who is regarded as one of the powerful members of the so-called "liberal" bloc, made a significant comment in this connection on the radio the other day as he was being interviewed by his fellow Republican in the group, Senator Kenneth Keating of New York. Mr. Douglas declared:

"Now the truth of the matter is that we have not two parties in Congress, but four parties. We have a Liberal Democratic Party, which is overwhelmingly predominant in the North and the West, and a Conservative Democratic Party, which is overwhelmingly predominant in the South. And we have a Conservative Republican Party, which is overwhelmingly predominant in most sections of the country with a small but very fine liberal wing largely confined to the Northeastern states. This is the basic difficulty. We cleavage—and most of our Southern Democrats vote with the Conservative Republicans. It is this bi-partisan alliance — which I have called the 'unholy alliance' —which has dominated Congress for 24 years."

The figure of speech didn't, however, stand up too well this week, as it was the Northern "liberals" and the Southern conservatives who joined together in an alliance to oppose the use of the cloture rule which would terminate the filibuster. Does that prove that the so-called "liberals" and so-called "conservatives" are really no different under the skin? Or does it prove that each case stands alone and that basic principles and party discipline have become old-fashioned in an era of irresponsible government?

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

POLITICAL ISSUE — The state of the national economy is bound to become a prime political issue in this fall's election campaigns. In fact, it is this prospect that has Washington thinking so hard and saying so much about economic conditions.

Democrats in Congress, who must face the electorate a few months hence, are showing signs of restiveness over delays in administration actions to head off a recession. They're applying some pretty hard pressure on the White House to "do something."

It's hard to remember when the capital has been in such a state about business conditions when the economic indicators show only a leveling off — not a decline — in activity.

The present concern is traceable directly to the dramatic drop in stock prices of last May 28. It called public attention to a condition that had been going on in a quiet way for four months. And ever since, business conditions have been reported in much the same manner as a sensational trial or sports event.

It is this extremely high level of public interest as much as the event itself that makes business conditions such an explosive political issue. And it is a condition tailored perfectly to candidates who plan to run for office on a platform of opposition to the Kennedy administration.

Regardless of which way the economy moves from here, President Kennedy has been tagged with responsibility for the national economic reversal, and what he does about it will play a large part in the political makeup of the Senate and House next year.

Rep. Thomas Uses His Pursestring Power To Give Contract To AT&T

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is on vacation. In his absence, the Washington Merry-Go-Round will be written by his associate, Jack Anderson.

WASHINGTON—A quick telephone call from Congressman Albert Thomas, Texas Democrat, recently threw the Space Agency's contracting machinery into reverse, overturned the near-unanimous recommendation of the experts, and produced another fat contract for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Apparently, the telephone combine wasn't satisfied with trying to corner the commercial communications business in outer space. It also wanted to run the telephone service on the ground at the new Houston Space Center.

The government negotiators favored awarding the contract to General Telephone, but Thomas wanted it to go to Southwestern Bell, an AT & T subsidiary.

As chairman of the House subcommittee which appropriates space funds, Thomas is treated with greater deference around the Space Agency than John Glenn. Indeed, the agency located its space flight center in Houston, an awkward distance from the space activities at Cape Canaveral, largely because Thomas wanted it in his home town.

His recent call about the telephone contract was taken by Space Administrator James Webb's executive assistant, Col. R. P. Young.

"I would like to provide some free, unsolicited, and unbiased advice," purred the Congressman over the phone. "I have heard that there is a controversy developing between General Telephone and Bell Telephone in Texas as to who will provide service to the Houston Space Flight Center.

"I recommend that you go to Bell for the service," he added, and his tone was final.

Colonel Young politely thanked the Congressman and promised to pass his recommendation to "the proper persons." Among those hastily notified: Space Chief Webb, Deputy Chief Hugh Dryden, Associate Chief Robert Seamans Jr., and Legislative Chief Paul Dembling.

Wrong Advice

A five-man advisory committee had already recommended unanimously that the contract go to General Telephone, which had offered cheaper, faster service.

But the space chiefs, obviously hoping for different advice, set up a new, five-man advisory committee. This came back with the same unwanted advice—namely, that General Telephone should operate the phone system at the space center.

All AT&T picked up was one lone advocate, who was outvoted four to one.

What happened next is obscured in secrecy. Only this much is known: E. A. Gillam, the contracting officer, ignored all the advice and awarded the contract to AT&T.

He flatly refused to discuss his action with this column.

"Does this contract involve national security?" I asked him. "Is it a military secret?"

"No", he confessed, "a telephone contract isn't a security matter."

Asked why the public couldn't be told about it, he finally replied: "It is considered sensitive."

As for Congressman Thomas, this wasn't the first time he had used his influence to help AT&T. A year ago, he invited John L. Moore, then the General Services Administrator, to a stag party in honor of AT&T Chairman Frederick Kappel.

Thomas also holds the purse strings to the General Services Administration. But Moore, apparently thinking this was purely a social occasion, was slow in accepting.

Thomas called three times. The third time, he made it clear that he expected to see Moore at the party.

It happened that AT&T and Western Union were competing at the time for a GSA contract to establish a nation-wide telecommunications network for the civilian side of the federal government.

Moore dutifully made his command appearance at the Congressman's party, and shortly thereafter the contract was awarded to AT & T but a GSA spokesman swears there was "no political interference."

When the wives of Senators get together, their favorite subject of gossip is the lady they would most like to be—the First Lady.

They always agree that Jackie Kennedy is beautiful, charming, and cultured. But they also whisper that she wears her skirts too tight and her hair too plain.

The hottest item of Gossip, however, is Jackie's political naivete. When she was a Senator's wife, she seldom visited the Senate and took little interest in the political hurly-burly.

At a recent get-together, one wife breathlessly told of her latest encounter with the First Lady.

Jackie asked the woman where her husband's office was located. Upon learning it was in the old Senuate office building, Jackie bubbled: "Oh, my husband was in the Old Senate Office Building. I loved it because it was so old."

'We had no choice," replied the Senator's wife dryly. Any Senatorial spouse worth her ruffles is supposed to know that Senate offices are assigned by seniority.

But Jackie seemed puzzled, so the Senator's wife had to explain the seniority system.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Everything went bad until we reached the 13th tee. Then it got worse. We had hacked our way back and forth across every hole at Bamm Hollow, topping the ball, whiffing, slicing, hooking — Sometimes we found we could pitch further over a green than we could drive. Kelly said: "Why don't we tee off with a nine iron?"

I gave her a glance which can only be described as withering. The ball was teed up on the 13th. I looked at the ball. It looked back. A few ants crawled upon it. They know the safe places. The green was 430 yards away. Dead ahead was a square lake. On the right was a ditch, edging the fairway. Above the ditch was a small mountain, garnished with old oaks. To the left was more lake, and beyond it, the 14th fairway.

I removed a spoon from the bag. If you are going to miss a ball, you might as well miss with a good-looking club. Mrs. B. crouched behind the golf cart. If this was supposed to make me feel nervous, it worked. "Use an old ball," she said, "in case." I was using an old ball, a cobblestone given to me by Bill Armstrong. It had a teardrop shape. It looked as though it had been stepped on by Jackie Gleason.

"Don't forget your don'ts" my wife said. So, as I stood in front of the ball, waggling my hips, hitching my feet, twitching my neck muscles, lifting and lowering the club, I began the countdown. "Don't sway the body. Don't life the head. Don't close the face of the club. Don't permit more than three knuckles of the hand to show. Don't be too far from the ball. Don't be too near. Don't hurry the backswing. Don't lock the knees. Don't hit the ball."

So I swung and missed. I'm a left-hander. This makes golf goofier. I swung again. The ball went straight up in the air, hung there, and fell into the lake. It wasn't worth looking for, but I looked anyway. We stood at the edge of the water. The lake, except for a little bull's eye ripple, was quiet. In the middle, I thought I saw the round head of a man floating with a peaked cap on the head. It wasn't that hot a day, so I ignored it. Kelly said: "Is that a man out there?" It was just a head, a chin and a cap. No shoulders, no arms, no body.

I took a chance. "How do you do?" I said to the head. The head nodded. It was a real one. "I must be losing my mind," I said to the head. The head smiled. "I tread the bottom of the lake," it said, "for golf balls." I decided not to count that first shot.

We went back to the tee. I teed up with a brand new Vito Gaeta ball. This one is round. I hauled off, not thinking of any of the don'ts, and hit it. It went straight out, across the lake. On the far side, it made a right turn, climbing, cleared the ditch, the little mountain, the trees, and landed on the 17th fairway.

"Some shot, hey?" I said, and she shrugged and said: "Depends on where you're going." A very jealous woman, Mrs. B. I went walking for the ball as she hit off. She hits with all the power of an anemic baby waving bye-bye. The ball crossed the lake, bounced straight and true, and died on the fairway.

I found my ball in the mountain, and hit it with a four wood, after giving it a couple of kicks to get it out of the rough. It flew back across the 17th, cleared the mountain, the ditch, the lake, and landed between two old men on the 14th. I was 225 yards from the green. The old men glared at me. I glared back.

I wound the wood back around my ears, swung, and hit the ball. By accident, it sailed diagonally across the 14th missing an agile old lady by inches, landed on the apron of the proper green, bounced up, and died six feet from the pin.

Kelly made her second shot into the ditch. I had to help her look for it because it is the gentlemanly thing to do, although I seldom feel gentlemanly. "Why don't you learn how to hit them?" I said. She shook her head. "Where are you, Arnold?" she said sweetly.

"Oh," I said sarcastically. "Funny, funny. I happen to be on the green. I lie three." She kept swinging. I knew she didn't believe me, so I told her I would not tell a fib about a golf score because my guardian angel was watching. "You're the only man I know," she said, "who needs two."

When we got to the green, I got to hands and knees and studied the situation, the way the professionals do on television. I rapped the ball and it staggered into the cup for a four.

Just then, Tom Steinbach, the manager of Bamm Hollow, passed by in a cart. "How are you doing?" he said. "Just fair," I said. "Par". . .

Anti-Ringworm Agent Relieves Acute Gout

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Griseofulvin, the anti-ringworm agent, is effective also in the treatment of acute gout. Dr. Stanley L. Wallace and Dr. Anthony W. Nissen of Brooklyn, N. Y., relieved the inflammatory process in 15 of 20 victims of the disease.

This is understandable because griseofulvin has a chemical structure resembling colchicine, an old reliable for more than 1,500 years for the acute attack. Improvement occurs within a few days following which there is an interval of comfort lasting months or years. In contrast to griseofulvin, colchicine does not have the slightest effect upon ringworm, even in large doses.

The beneficial effects of colchicine come from its ability to ease swelling and inflammation in the involved joint. The painful and exquisitely tender big toe, for example, begins to feel better in 24 hours or less, provided adequate doses are used. Griseofulvin does the same.

But the period of freedom from pain gets shorter and shorter and the acute attack returns in time unless the urid acid level of the blood is kept down via diet or a drug such as probenecid.

Tablets containing a mixture of colchicine and probenecid are employed frequently in treating gout. The first takes care of the symptoms and the second reduces the uric acid level. Two tablets a day of the combination decrease the period of disability and this is a small price to pay for relief from this century old plague.

The kings of old and the famous victims of gout would have given their fortune for these modern remedies. But there is no convincing evidence that gout is caused by high living — a concept fostered by writers and cartoonists from way back when. It is a metabolic disorder.

When probenecid is used, the excess uric acid is eliminated by the kidneys. Drink at least three quarts of liquid a day to keep this acid from crystalizing in the urine and forming stones.

SOBERING UP

F. A. writes: What can you give a drunken person to sober him up?

REPLY

Stimulants such as coffee help occasionally and the same can be said of a cold shower or an emetic that makes the individual upchuck. Tranquilizers are more modern remedies. They quiet the individual and encourage him to sleep it off. Others favor the older paraldehyde, chloral hydrate, or the barbiturates. But there is no good way to sober up a man who has had too much to drink. The alcohol is in the blood and nothing can be done to make the body eliminate the chemical at a faster rate.

HEAD BLOOD

F. R. P. writes: Please explain the effects of strangulation of blood in the head.

REPLY

Blood in the head does not strangulate but thoughts do occasionally. The flow of blood may be arrested when an artery is compressed by a tumor or is blocked by a clot.

SAFE DELIVERY

Mrs. O. G. writes: What is considered the safest way to deliver a baby?

REPLY

The natural way — provided complications do not exist.

SIGHT AFTER SURGERY

N. L. writes: Can a person see good after a cataract operation?

REPLY

Yes, with special lenses, and provided the eyes are normal otherwise.

POLYP IN STOMACH

L. E. F. writes: What is done with a stomach polyp?

REPLY

It should be removed because of the possibility of malignancy.

TOMORROW: Changes in moles.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Dan Indians, Tigers Score Shutout Wins

The league-leading Tigers and the runner-up Indians scored shutout victories in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday.

The Tigers whipped the Angels, 10-0, behind the two-hit twirling of Glenn Cross at Leiper Street field to maintain their half-game margin over the Indians who blanked the Athletics, 11-0, at Penn Avenue as Ralph Leasure also hurled a two-hitter.

Cross struck out 11 as he pitched the Tigers to their 10th win and his own sixth mound triumph. Mike Malloy belted a home run, Mervin Uhl had a triple, Ricky Scaletta and Kevin Kienhofer had two-baggers to pace the Tigers at the plate.

Leasure also notched his sixth victory and raised his strikeout total to 93 for 42 innings of hurling this year as he whiffed 16 Athletics yesterday. Twins Whip Orioles, 6-3

Minnesota Scores Four Runs In 9th

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Vic Power's clutch single drove in the winning runs in a wild ninth inning in which the Minnesota Twins scored four runs on only one hit to beat the Baltimore Orioles Thursday night, 6-3.

The ninth opened with the Orioles leading, 3-2, and Hoyt Wilhelm pitching. Bob Allison led off with a walk and went to second on catcher Gus Triandos' passed ball. Jerry Zimmerman then bunted and Triandos threw too late to third in an attempt to nail Allison.

After Bernie Allen struck out, Wilhelm wild - pitched Allison home with the tying run. He then wild-pitched pinch runner Oflando Martinez to third before walking Zoilo Versalles and Bill Tuttle to load the bases. Wilhelm then was replaced by Billy Hoeft.

Hoeft retired Lenny Green on a pop fly but Power singled to right for two runs. Tuttle tried to score from first on the hit and the throw had him beaten but Triandos dropped the ball while making the tag for his second error of the game. Triandos was spiked on the hand during the play and was replaced by Hobie Landrith.

Frank Sullivan, who pitched the seventh and eighth innings for Minnesota, was credited with the victory and Ray Moore pitched a scoreless ninth.

The Orioles had taken a 3-0 lead against Twins starter Dick Stigman, but Minnesota battled back to knock out Baltimore starter Dick Hall with two runs in the sixth inning, including Versalles' 12th homer. Jerry Adair earlier homered for the Orioles.

Mahan Takes Lead In Rebel Class Sailing Championship

Paces Field Of 36 Boats On First Day At Deep Creek Lake

By DAVID MURRIE

SWANTON, Md. — David C. Mahan, of Morgantown, defending National Rebel Class Sailing Champion, was on his way to repeat Thursday, leading a field of 36 boats after the first day of sailing in the 1962 titles series being held at his home club, the Deep Creek Yacht Club, on Deep Creek Lake.

The West Virginia student accumulated 73¼ points against 17¼ for Edward and Ludwig Fromme, of the Toledo Sailing Club, whose boat was national champion in 1956 with brother Ludwig at the tiller.

Mahan's crew today was Kenton B. Farrell, of Cumberland, Md., a former commodore of the host club.

Mahan was second in the morning race, a drifter that required over two hours to complete, and won handily in the afternoon race in a five-knot breeze. The Fromme boat, skippered today by brother Edward, won the drifter and was fourth in the afternoon event.

In third place today was Mrs. Bobbe Herndon, of Springfield, Ill., representing the Island Bay Yacht Club, of Pinckney, Ill. Mrs. Herndon, wife of the retiring class commodore, was third in the morning and also in the afternoon for a point score of 70.

Dr. Leon Striegel, of the Crab Orchard Lake Sailing Club, Carbondale, Ill., was fourth in Thursday's standings with 64 points, from a fourth in the first race to sixth in the afternoon event.

Dr. Striegel was elected class commodore at the class association annual meeting here Wednesday night, and the 1963 national championship regatta was awarded to Dr. Striegel's home club. The class numbers nearly 2,000 registered voters in this county and abroad.

The racing here will be continued Friday with two races and will be concluded Saturday with a final race. Friday's program will get under way at 10 a.m.

Dapper Yankees Knock Red Sox Out Of Playoffs, 8-5

Combining a nine-hit attack to back Mike Smith's six-hit twirling the Yankees knocked the Red Sox out of the playoffs in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday at Constitution Park. The score was 8-5.

The defeat by the Red Sox gave them a 7-7 record at the conclusion of their regular season and enabled the defending champion Phillies to retain the fourth place playoff berth with an 8-6 mark.

The Yankees moved into undisputed possession of second place in the Dapper Division with their 10th win in 14 games as Smith whiffed six and walked three in going the route against the Red Sox.

Doug Williams belted a home run over the right field fence and added a double and triple to pace the Yankees at the plate. Loser Jack Chaney had two singles and Baker had a double for the Red Sox. The results:

BETTER MILEAGE

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In 1954 Roger Bannister made track history with a 3:59.4 mile — the first ever run under four minutes. Last month at the National AAU meet here Bill Dotson of Lawrence, Kan., bettered Bannister's mile with a 3:59.0 time but, after studying Bulova Phototimer pictures of the race for half an hour, judges decided he had finished in fourth behind Jim Beatty (3:57.92) Jim Grelle (3:58.17) and Cary Weisiger (3:58.18).

Dotson was denied even the consolation of being the "farthest-back" finisher of an under-4-minutes mile. Back in 1958 an Australian named Albert Thomas turned in a 3:58.6 mile in a race in Dublin, Ireland, yet wound up in fifth place.

$50,000 DOWN THE DRAIN?—Suspended and fined two months ago for "poor performance," pitcher Ray Sadecki has been optioned to Atlanta by the St. Louis Cardinals. Sadecki received an estimated $50,000 bonus when he signed with the Red Birds.

The hard-throwing righthander also aided his own cause by hitting a home run and a double to lead the Indians at the plate. Terry Ashby's two-bagger was the big blow for the Athletics. The results:

Twins Whip Orioles, 6-3

Minnesota Scores Four Runs In 9th

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Vic Power's clutch single drove in the winning runs in a wild ninth inning in which the Minnesota Twins scored four runs on only one hit to beat the Baltimore Orioles Thursday night, 6-3.

The ninth opened with the Orioles leading, 3-2, and Hoyt Wilhelm pitching. Bob Allison led off with a walk and went to second on catcher Gus Triandos' passed ball. Jerry Zimmerman then bunted and Triandos threw too late to third in an attempt to nail Allison.

After Bernie Allen struck out, Wilhelm wild - pitched Allison home with the tying run. He then wild-pitched pinch runner Oflando Martinez to third before walking Zoilo Versalles and Bill Tuttle to load the bases. Wilhelm then was replaced by Billy Hoeft.

Hoeft retired Lenny Green on a pop fly but Power singled to right for two runs. Tuttle tried to score from first on the hit and the throw had him beaten but Triandos dropped the ball while making the tag for his second error of the game. Triandos was spiked on the hand during the play and was replaced by Hobie Landrith.

Frank Sullivan, who pitched the seventh and eighth innings for Minnesota, was credited with the victory and Ray Moore pitched a scoreless ninth.

The Orioles had taken a 3-0 lead against Twins starter Dick Stigman, but Minnesota battled back to knock out Baltimore starter Dick Hall with two runs in the sixth inning, including Versalles' 12th homer. Jerry Adair earlier homered for the Orioles.

Mahan Takes Lead In Rebel Class Sailing Championship

Paces Field Of 36 Boats On First Day At Deep Creek Lake

By DAVID MURRIE

SWANTON, Md. — David C. Mahan, of Morgantown, defending National Rebel Class Sailing Champion, was on his way to repeat Thursday, leading a field of 36 boats after the first day of sailing in the 1962 titles series being held at his home club, the Deep Creek Yacht Club, on Deep Creek Lake.

The West Virginia student accumulated 73¼ points against 17¼ for Edward and Ludwig Fromme, of the Toledo Sailing Club, whose boat was national champion in 1956 with brother Ludwig at the tiller.

Mahan's crew today was Kenton B. Farrell, of Cumberland, Md., a former commodore of the host club.

Mahan was second in the morning race, a drifter that required over two hours to complete, and won handily in the afternoon race in a five-knot breeze. The Fromme boat, skippered today by brother Edward, won the drifter and was fourth in the afternoon event.

In third place today was Mrs. Bobbe Herndon, of Springfield, Ill., representing the Island Bay Yacht Club, of Pinckney, Ill. Mrs. Herndon, wife of the retiring class commodore, was third in the morning and also in the afternoon for a point score of 70.

Dr. Leon Striegel, of the Crab Orchard Lake Sailing Club, Carbondale, Ill., was fourth in Thursday's standings with 64 points, from a fourth in the first race to sixth in the afternoon event.

Dr. Striegel was elected class commodore at the class association annual meeting here Wednesday night, and the 1963 national championship regatta was awarded to Dr. Striegel's home club. The class numbers nearly 2,000 registered voters in this county and abroad.

The racing here will be continued Friday with two races and will be concluded Saturday with a final race. Friday's program will get under way at 10 a.m.

BETTER MILEAGE

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In 1954 Roger Bannister made track history with a 3:59.4 mile — the first ever run under four minutes. Last month at the National AAU meet here Bill Dotson of Lawrence, Kan., bettered Bannister's mile with a 3:59.0 time but, after studying Bulova Phototimer pictures of the race for half an hour, judges decided he had finished in fourth behind Jim Beatty (3:57.92) Jim Grelle (3:58.17) and Cary Weisiger (3:58.18).

Dotson was denied even the consolation of being the "farthest-back" finisher of an under-4-minutes mile. Back in 1958 an Australian named Albert Thomas turned in a 3:58.6 mile in a race in Dublin, Ireland, yet wound up in fifth place.

75,000 Expected To See Favored Packers Meet All-Stars Tonight

College Eleven Is 3 Touchdown Underdog In Tilt

Game Is Televised; Wide Open Contest Expected By Stars

By TED SMITS

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars take on the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League, Friday night in Soldier Field before 75,000, with the Packers favored by three touchdowns.

The forecast is for good weather.

The game will be broadcast and televised, starting at 8:45 p.m., EST (ABC).

Brilliant Squad

The 1962 All-Star squad, comprising players from both NFL and its rival, the American Football League, is ranked as one of the most brilliant in the history of this game, now in its 29th edition under the direction of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

The collegians are basing their hope for an upset on playing a wide-open game, probably pinned to the throwing arm of John Hadl of Kansas, who is captain of the offensive team.

"I'll guarantee we won't be hitting the line three times in a row," says Coach Otto Graham of the All-Stars. "Physically, the Packers won't push us around. I just hope we don't make any errors."

In the All-Star backfield chosen for introduction before the game are Hadl, Angelo Dabiero of Notre Dame, James Saxton of Texas and Curtis McClinton of Kansas. Back of these men are such redoubtable ex-collegians as Bob Ferguson of Ohio State and Ronnie Bull of Baylor, both hard runners; Roman Gabr el of North Carolina State, a fancy passer, and Lance Alworth of Arkansas.

Experts To Watch

The offensive backfield of the Packers will be comprised of Bart Starr at quarterback, Hornung and Boyd Dowler at the halves, and Jim Taylor at fullback.

The experts will be watching not only for the quality of the new crop recruited by the two big professional football leagues, but also to see whether the Packers can be expected to repeat for the NFL championship.

Wall Leads Insurance Open Golf

Posts 6-Under-Par 65 At Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., turned in a six-under-par 65 to lead the pack and Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia banged out a record-making 29 for the first nine on the opening day of the $35,000 Insurance City Open Thursday at Wethersfield Country Club.

Wall's 65 lacked five strokes of being a course record, but Crampton's 29 was six strokes under par for the outbound route for the most spectacular half-way mark in the 11 years of the tournament.

After parring three holes and collecting six birdies, Crampton parred the next three holes and then ran into such much trouble he wouldn't talk about it.

He bogied the 13th, double bogied the 14th, and bogied the 15th and the 17th, while shooting par on the intervening holes.

On the home stretch he took a 41, which was five over par and he wound up the day's work with a one-under par 70 for the 18 holes.

Par on the 6,551 yard course is 71 and nearly two dozen other players, came in with from one to five strokes under the mark. One of these was Al Johnston of Montreal, who played in the trio with Crampton. Johnston had a 34-33—67 with plenty of company with identical cars.

Wall came into the tournament after finishing third in the recent Canadian Open in which Crampton took third money by lack of a single stroke.

Ted Kroll, who took top money in the Candian Open and won the ICO's first tournament in 1952, gained a par 71 for the opening day.

Gene Littler, the 100 winner in 1959, turned in a 68. Billy Maxwell, the winner last year, settled for a 68. Tommy Bolt, the 1954 champion, a 67 and 1958 winner Jackie Burke a 70.

Charlie Sifford, runnerup in the Canadian Open, posted a 67.

RECORD POINTS

CHICAGO (UPI) —Ernie Nevers of the Chicago Cardinals scored a National Football League record of 40 points in a game against the Chicago Bears, Nov. 28, 1929. Nevers scored 6 touchdowns and 4 extra points.

Midland, Keyser, Barton Post Twilight Loop Wins

Westernport Beats Lonaconing As Top Nines Continue Pace

The top four teams in the Twilight Baseball League posted victories yesterday as Midland downed Gilmore, 10-7, at Midland; Keyser edged Zihlman, 6-5, at Keyser; Barton outslugged Franklin, 11-9, at Franklin; and Westernport beat Lonaconing, 8-5, at Lonaconing.

Paul "Bubbles" Thompson belted a three-run homer following an error and a single by Bobby Mundeno in the eighth inning to give Midland its triumph over Gilmore in an overtime battle.

Francis Allen was the winning pitcher although requiring relief help from Jim Winters in the eighth. Thompson's circuit clout was the second of the game for the Midland slugger who socked a solo blast in the fourth and added a single to pace Midland at the plate. Fay Often also contributed a solo homer for the winners while Mundeno chipped in with a pair of singles.

Carl Blake cracked a two-run homer in the second and Sam Llewellyn pinch-hit a three-run blast to cap a four-run Gilmore rally in the seventh which tied the score.

Barton outslugged Franklin for the Braves' 17th win as six pitchers saw action, three for each team. Mike Muir picked up the decision while Bob Rosedale was the loser for Franklin.

Bill Bennett slugged a home run, triple and three singles in a losing cause for Franklin while Jim Thomas had three hits for Barton.

Gene Kuykendall walked, stole second and third and trotted home on Jim Chidester's one-out single in the bottom of the seventh to give Keyser its victory over Zihlman.

Lefty Rich Robinson went the route for Keyser to pick up his third win, scattering six hits. Jim Diehl, pitching in relief of Bill Diehl in the seventh, took the loss.

Dale Ramsburg cracked out a double and single for Keyser while Robinson's two-bagger tied the score for the winners in the sixth. Bill Smith collected two hits and Joe McGowan had a single and a triple for Zihlman.

A five-run splurge in the fifth inning iced the verdict for Westernport over Lonaconing. Joe Niland was the winner while Leonard Wilson was the loser. Clyde Broadwater belted a double and two singles for the winners while Metz had a triple, double and single for Lonaconing.

It was the Vets' 23rd win in 25 decisions and their 120th victory against 27 losses in four years of play in the circuit. The Vets now lead by two games with only three games left to play.

Pete Elliott, who was relieved by Jack Eckard during a 6-run bombardment in the 6th frame, received credit for the win, his 11th of the campaign against one loss.

The Vets racked up 15 hits, including three each by Mil Dean and Jim Eckard and a homer and single each by Barney Spearman and Cecil Grimes. John Horwath had two of the eight hits credited to Celanese.

The runner-up Loyal Order of Moose team exploded for five runs in the third frame to down C.&P. Telephone Company at Post Field by the score of 5-1.

Each team was limited to three hits. Dick Klavuhn (14-3) got the win and Theis was tagged with the loss.

Klavuhn's double coupled with a single, two errors and two sacrifices produced five runs in the third frame.

Al Sheetz pitched the Caseys to a 5-1 decision over the Elks at Campobello and gave his team a two-game edge over Celanese in the battle for the fourth place playoff spot.

In recording his fifth win of the year against two losses, Sheetz scattered seven hits and struck out six.

Earl McKenzie provided the big blow during a 4-run rally in the fourth when he belted a triple with the bases loaded. Norm Sell had two hits for the Caseys. Bobby Williams paced the Elks with two singles and Bob Pence walloped a triple.

Ritter's A.C. broke an 8-8 tie with a 7-run explosion in the top of the eighth frame to trim Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at Stitcher Field by the score of 15-9.

The R.A.C. collected 21 hits. Gene Basilio banged a homer, double and single, Frank Young smashed a homer and two singles, Don Decker slammed a three-bagger and two doubles and Odell Warnick garnered a pair of two-base blows and a single for the winners. John Esposito with a homer and two singles and Jim Hinkle with three one-base knocks headed the PPG's 15-hit offensive.

Angels Edge Indians, 5-4

Art Fowler Saves Los Angeles Win

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Art Fowler nailed Chuck Essegian on a foul pop with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning Thursday to save a 5-4 victory for the Los Angeles Angels over the Cleveland Indians.

It was the Angels' third straight win over the Indians, and they were helped to a 5-2 lead by a pair of passed balls by Cleveland pitcher John Romano.

But Romano doubled to touch off the ninth-inning uprising that almost won the game for the Tribe. One out later he scored on a single by Tito Francona. When Don Dillard beat out a scratch single, Jack Spring relieved Ryne Duren and walked Howard Edwards to load the bases.

That brought in Fowler. Bubba Phillips drove in one run with a sacrifice fly but, after Willie Tasby's infield single again loaded the bases, Essegian lifted a soft foul to the catcher to end the game.

Larsen Saves Win For Giants Over Cubs, 4-3

Pierce Scores 9th Victory Of Season

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don Larsen came to the rescue of Billy Pierce in the ninth inning Thursday and snuffed out a rally to assure the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs and end a four-game losing streak.

Pierce was within one out of going the distance for the fourth time this season. But then Billy Williams and Andre Rodgers teed off on the veteran lefthander for back-to-back home runs. Larsen then came in and struck out pinch hitter Bob Will to save Pierce his ninth victory against three defeats.

The Giants broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning when they scored twice at the expense of losing southpaw Dick Ellsworth. Then they picked up another run in the eighth on Ernie Bowman's squeeze bunt.

Kansas City Tops Tigers

Siebern's Homer Sparks 5-4 Win

DETROIT (UPI) —Norm Siebern's three-run homer in the sixth inning Thursday sparked the Kansas Athletics to a 5-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers, whose cause was blocked by an umpire's leg.

The A's started rallying from a 2-1 deficit in the sixth when first baseman Norm Cash dropped Bobby Del Greco's popup in the sun. Ed Charles walked with one out and Siebern followed with his 14th homer, off Hank Aguirre, to push the Athletics ahead, 4-2. A freak play cost the Tigers two runs in the seventh, which proved decisive. With runners on first and second, Al Kaline hit a smash off Ed Rakow which got past Charles at third base and seemed headed for a double.

But the ball hit the leg of umpire Bill Kinnamon and bounced to shortstop Billy Consolo. This confused the runners and Don Buddin was caught in a rundown between home and third. Danny McDevitt replaced Rakow and pitched out of a bases - loaded jam.

75,000 Expected To See Favored Packers Meet All-Stars Tonight

College Eleven Is 3 Touchdown Underdog In Tilt

Game Is Televised; Wide Open Contest Expected By Stars

By TED SMITS

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars take on the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League, Friday night in Soldier Field before 75,000, with the Packers favored by three touchdowns.

The forecast is for good weather.

The game will be broadcast and televised, starting at 8:45 p.m., EST (ABC).

Missing from the All-Star squad is Ernie Davis of Syracuse, 1961 Heisman Trophy winner, but back in Packer uniform after competing his Army stint is Paul Hornung, one of modern football's greats. Davis is hospitalized with a blood ailment.

Brilliant Squad

The 1962 All-Star squad, comprising players from both NFL and its rival, the American Football League, is ranked as one of the most brilliant in the history of this game, now in its 29th edition under the direction of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

The collegians are basing their hope for an upset on playing a wide-open game, probably pinned to the throwing arm of John Hadl of Kansas, who is captain of the offensive team.

"I'll guarantee we won't be hitting the line three times in a row," says Coach Otto Graham of the All-Stars. "Physically, the Packers won't push us around. I just hope we don't make any errors."

In the All-Star backfield chosen for introduction before the game are Hadl, Angelo Dabiero of Notre Dame, James Saxton of Texas and Curtis McClinton of Kansas. Back of these men are such redoubtable ex-collegians as Bob Ferguson of Ohio State and Ronnie Bull of Baylor, both hard runners; Roman Gabr el of North Carolina State, a fancy passer, and Lance Alworth of Arkansas.

Experts To Watch

The offensive backfield of the Packers will be comprised of Bart Starr at quarterback, Hornung and Boyd Dowler at the halves, and Jim Taylor at fullback.

The experts will be watching not only for the quality of the new crop recruited by the two big professional football leagues, but also to see whether the Packers can be expected to repeat for the NFL championship.

Wall Leads Insurance Open Golf

Posts 6-Under-Par 65 At Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., turned in a six-under-par 65 to lead the pack and Bruce Crampton of Sydney, Australia banged out a record-making 29 for the first nine on the opening day of the $35,000 Insurance City Open Thursday at Wethersfield Country Club.

Wall's 65 lacked five strokes of being a course record, but Crampton's 29 was six strokes under par for the outbound route for the most spectacular half-way mark in the 11 years of the tournament.

After parring three holes and collecting six birdies, Crampton parred the next three holes and then ran into such much trouble he wouldn't talk about it.

He bogied the 13th, double bogied the 14th, and bogied the 15th and the 17th, while shooting par on the intervening holes.

On the home stretch he took a 41, which was five over par and he wound up the day's work with a one-under par 70 for the 18 holes.

Par on the 6,551 yard course is 71 and nearly two dozen other players, came in with from one to five strokes under the mark. One of these was Al Johnston of Montreal, who played in the trio with Crampton. Johnston had a 34-33—67 with plenty of company with identical cars.

Wall came into the tournament after finishing third in the recent Canadian Open in which Crampton took third money by lack of a single stroke.

Ted Kroll, who took top money in the Candian Open and won the ICO's first tournament in 1952, gained a par 71 for the opening day.

Gene Littler, the 100 winner in 1959, turned in a 68. Billy Maxwell, the winner last year, settled for a 68. Tommy Bolt, the 1954 champion, a 67 and 1958 winner Jackie Burke a 70.

Charlie Sifford, runnerup in the Canadian Open, posted a 67.

RECORD POINTS

CHICAGO (UPI) —Ernie Nevers of the Chicago Cardinals scored a National Football League record of 40 points in a game against the Chicago Bears, Nov. 28, 1929. Nevers scored 6 touchdowns and 4 extra points.

The top four teams in the Twilight Baseball League posted victories yesterday as Midland downed Gilmore, 10-7, at Midland; Keyser edged Zihlman, 6-5, at Keyser; Barton outslugged Franklin, 11-9, at Franklin; and Westernport beat Lonaconing, 8-5, at Lonaconing.

Paul "Bubbles" Thompson belted a three-run homer following an error and a single by Bobby Mundeno in the eighth inning to give Midland its triumph over Gilmore in an overtime battle.

Francis Allen was the winning pitcher although requiring relief help from Jim Winters in the eighth. Thompson's circuit clout was the second of the game for the Midland slugger who socked a solo blast in the fourth and added a single to pace Midland at the plate. Fay Often also contributed a solo homer for the winners while Mundeno chipped in with a pair of singles.

Carl Blake cracked a two-run homer in the second and Sam Llewellyn pinch-hit a three-run blast to cap a four-run Gilmore rally in the seventh which tied the score.

Barton outslugged Franklin for the Braves' 17th win as six pitchers saw action, three for each team. Mike Muir picked up the decision while Bob Rosedale was the loser for Franklin.

Bill Bennett slugged a home run, triple and three singles in a losing cause for Franklin while Jim Thomas had three hits for Barton.

Gene Kuykendall walked, stole second and third and trotted home on Jim Chidester's one-out single in the bottom of the seventh to give Keyser its victory over Zihlman.

Lefty Rich Robinson went the route for Keyser to pick up his third win, scattering six hits. Jim Diehl, pitching in relief of Bill Diehl in the seventh, took the loss.

Dale Ramsburg cracked out a double and single for Keyser while Robinson's two-bagger tied the score for the winners in the sixth. Bill Smith collected two hits and Joe McGowan had a single and a triple for Zihlman.

A five-run splurge in the fifth inning iced the verdict for Westernport over Lonaconing. Joe Niland was the winner while Leonard Wilson was the loser. Clyde Broadwater belted a double and two singles for the winners while Metz had a triple, double and single for Lonaconing.

Angels Edge Indians, 5-4

Art Fowler Saves Los Angeles Win

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Art Fowler nailed Chuck Essegian on a foul pop with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning Thursday to save a 5-4 victory for the Los Angeles Angels over the Cleveland Indians.

It was the Angels' third straight win over the Indians, and they were helped to a 5-2 lead by a pair of passed balls by Cleveland pitcher John Romano.

But Romano doubled to touch off the ninth-inning uprising that almost won the game for the Tribe. One out later he scored on a single by Tito Francona. When Don Dillard beat out a scratch single, Jack Spring relieved Ryne Duren and walked Howard Edwards to load the bases.

That brought in Fowler. Bubba Phillips drove in one run with a sacrifice fly but, after Willie Tasby's infield single again loaded the bases, Essegian lifted a soft foul to the catcher to end the game.

Larsen Saves Win For Giants Over Cubs, 4-3

Pierce Scores 9th Victory Of Season

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don Larsen came to the rescue of Billy Pierce in the ninth inning Thursday and snuffed out a rally to assure the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs and end a four-game losing streak.

Pierce was within one out of going the distance for the fourth time this season. But then Billy Williams and Andre Rodgers teed off on the veteran lefthander for back-to-back home runs. Larsen then came in and struck out pinch hitter Bob Will to save Pierce his ninth victory against three defeats.

The Giants broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning when they scored twice at the expense of losing southpaw Dick Ellsworth. Then they picked up another run in the eighth on Ernie Bowman's squeeze bunt.

Kansas City Tops Tigers

Siebern's Homer Sparks 5-4 Win

DETROIT (UPI) —Norm Siebern's three-run homer in the sixth inning Thursday sparked the Kansas Athletics to a 5-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers, whose cause was blocked by an umpire's leg.

The A's started rallying from a 2-1 deficit in the sixth when first baseman Norm Cash dropped Bobby Del Greco's popup in the sun. Ed Charles walked with one out and Siebern followed with his 14th homer, off Hank Aguirre, to push the Athletics ahead, 4-2. A freak play cost the Tigers two runs in the seventh, which proved decisive. With runners on first and second, Al Kaline hit a smash off Ed Rakow which got past Charles at third base and seemed headed for a double.

But the ball hit the leg of umpire Bill Kinnamon and bounced to shortstop Billy Consolo. This confused the runners and Don Buddin was caught in a rundown between home and third. Danny McDevitt replaced Rakow and pitched out of a bases - loaded jam.

Cumberland Tops Salisbury, 6-5, In 10th, In State Legion Tourney

Joe Ranker's Bases Loaded Walk Decides

Powelson Wins 4th Straight In Relief; Play Essex Today

Fort Cumberland Post drew first blood in the Maryland Department American Legion Junior Baseball Tournament Thursday morning by edging Wicomico Post of Salisbury in the opening game of the double elimination event at College Park by the score of 6-5 in ten innings.

The winning run was scored in the overtime battle when Grover Adkins, Salisbury relief pitcher, walked Joe Ranker with the bases loaded to break a 5-5 deadlock.

It was Salisbury's first defeat in 12 outings this season while the victory was the eighth in nine games played by Fort Cumberland Post.

Powelson Stops 'Em

Credit for the win went to Jimmie Powelson, the Ridgeley southpaw, who came on to relieve Lefty John Sloan in the 8th inning and pitched hitless and runless ball the last 2⅔ innings. Powelson struck out five and gave up only one base on balls.

Salisbury took a 5-4 lead in the 8th when Dick Leichty singled to center, Jim McAllister drew a pass and Mike Corbett drove Leichty home with a timely two-base wallop to center. At this point, Powelson supplanted Sloan on the mound and stopped the Eastern Shore team in its tracks by whiffing Gerald Pusey and Mike Hoch. Jimmie also blanked Salisbury in the ninth and tenth innings. In the tenth, he walked the first batter to face him but the latter was retired at second on a force out, the next hitter flied to left field and a strikeout ended the game.

Fourth In Row For Jimmie

It was the fourth straight win posted by Powelson, and all were registered in relief roles. He won the clincher for Fort Cumberland in the Mountain District League and worked in three games against Frederick, winning two of them.

Salisbury scored two runs in the second inning by grouping three hits with an error. Howard Wilson led off with a triple to left and remained on third base when Beahn was safe on an error. After Sloan fanned Barnes and Leichty, Ed Green beat out an infield hit which scored Wilson. The other run was scored on Jim McAllister's base blow to center.

Long Raps Double

Cumberland tied it up in the fifth after two away. Jimmie Cox walked and raced home on Michael Long's two-base wallop to center. Long crossed the platter when shortstop Mike Corbett booted Joe Ranker's grounder.

In the bottom of the fifth, however, Wicomico Post came back with two more runs without the aid of a hit. Mike Corbett got a life on an error. Gerald Pusey laid down a bunt and when Sloan threw wildly to first, Corbett came home and Pusey wound up on third base. Hoch drew a pass and Harvey Beahn's sacrifice fly to left scored Pusey.

Ranker's Hit Ties At 4-4

With two down in the 6th, Ronnie Manges was hit by a pitched ball, stole second and scored Cumberland's third run on Sloan's hit to right. Fort Cumberland knotted the count at 4-4 in the 7th when Jimmie Cox drew a pass, pilfered second and crossed the plate when Joe Ranker lined a single to right field.

Salisbury forged ahead again in the see-saw affair with a run in the 8th when Dick Leichty banged a single to center, McAllister walked after Adkins struck out and Mike Corbett clouted a two-bagger to center. Powelson then replaced Sloan on the hillock and retired the side by whiffing Pusey and Hoch.

Reynolds Comes Through

Long beat out an infield hit to open the 9th for the Allegany countians, moved to third when Ranker got two bases on an error by the shortstop and Roland Hamilton beat out a bunt to load the bases. Then Howard Reynolds delivered a single to right that plated Long and tied the score at 5-5.

Powelson set up the winning run in the tenth when he whacked a double down the third base line into left field. Bill Norris walked and Cox sacrificed both runners. Long was given an intentional pass to fill the bases. Unable to locate the plate Grover Adkins also walked Ranker, forcing in the deciding run.

Winners Get 10 Hits

Fort Cumberland outhit Salisbury, 10-6, and three of the safeties were credited to Long while Hamilton got a pair of bingles. Dick Leichty accounted for two of Salisbury's hits.

Sloan whiffed seven to give Cumberland pitchers a total of 12 victims while Green and Adkins struck out 14. Sloan gave up six walks and Green and Adkins issued seven free tickets.

Essex Post of Baltimore County, notched his 10th win in 13 starts, by downing John Latimer Post, of Takoma Park, in the second game on the opening day's program by the score of 14-5.

Play Essex Post Today

Essex Post will play Fort Cumberland Post in a second round game today at 1 p.m. At 10 a.m., Takoma Park (14-4) will play Salisbury. A team must lose two games to be eliminated from the 4-day tournament which ends on Sunday afternoon.

Bosox Defeat Chicago, 7-4

Clinton, Bressoud Pace Victors At Bat

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox capitalized on three tained hits and three legitimate singles to score five runs in the second inning Thursday to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 7-4.

Lou Clinton and Eddie Bressoud had three singles each to pace the Red Sox' 12-hit attack on six White Sox pitchers.

Clinton also had three hits in Bill Monbouqeutte's 1-0 no-hit victory over the White Sox Wednesday night and raised his average to .306.

Louis Aparicio established a personal career record for home runs in a season when he slugged his 7th in the fifth inning, and Al Smith hit his 12th homer with a man on for the White Sox.

Don Schwall picked up the victory, his fifth in 16 decisions, although he needed relief help from Dick Radatz in the sixth. Ray Herbert was the loser.

Cumberland Tops Salisbury, 6-5, In 10th, In State Legion Tourney

Joe Ranker's Bases Loaded Walk Decides

Powelson Wins 4th Straight In Relief; Play Essex Today

Fort Cumberland Post drew first blood in the Maryland Department American Legion Junior Baseball Tournament Thursday morning by edging Wicomico Post of Salisbury in the opening game of the double elimination event at College Park by the score of 6-5 in ten innings.

The winning run was scored in the overtime battle when Grover Adkins, Salisbury relief pitcher, walked Joe Ranker with the bases loaded to break a 5-5 deadlock.

It was Salisbury's first defeat in 12 outings this season while the victory was the eighth in nine games played by Fort Cumberland Post.

Powelson Stops 'Em

Credit for the win went to Jimmie Powelson, the Ridgeley southpaw, who came on to relieve Lefty John Sloan in the 8th inning and pitched hitless and runless ball the last 2⅔ innings. Powelson struck out five and gave up only one base on balls.

Salisbury took a 5-4 lead in the 8th when Dick Leichty singled to center, Jim McAllister drew a pass and Mike Corbett drove Leichty home with a timely two-base wallop to center. At this point, Powelson supplanted Sloan on the mound and stopped the Eastern Shore team in its tracks by whiffing Gerald Pusey and Mike Hoch. Jimmie also blanked Salisbury in the ninth and tenth innings. In the tenth, he walked the first batter to face him but the latter was retired at second on a force out, the next hitter flied to left field and a strikeout ended the game.

Fourth In Row For Jimmie

It was the fourth straight win posted by Powelson, and all were registered in relief roles. He won the clincher for Fort Cumberland in the Mountain District League and worked in three games against Frederick, winning two of them.

Salisbury scored two runs in the second inning by grouping three hits with an error. Howard Wilson led off with a triple to left and remained on third base when Beahn was safe on an error. After Sloan fanned Barnes and Leichty, Ed Green beat out an infield hit which scored Wilson. The other run was scored on Jim McAllister's base blow to center.

Long Raps Double

Cumberland tied it up in the fifth after two away. Jimmie Cox walked and raced home on Michael Long's two-base wallop to center. Long crossed the platter when shortstop Mike Corbett booted Joe Ranker's grounder.

In the bottom of the fifth, however, Wicomico Post came back with two more runs without the aid of a hit. Mike Corbett got a life on an error. Gerald Pusey laid down a bunt and when Sloan threw wildly to first, Corbett came home and Pusey wound up on third base. Hoch drew a pass and Harvey Beahn's sacrifice fly to left scored Pusey.

Ranker's Hit Ties At 4-4

With two down in the 6th, Ronnie Manges was hit by a pitched ball, stole second and scored Cumberland's third run on Sloan's hit to right. Fort Cumberland knotted the count at 4-4 in the 7th when Jimmie Cox drew a pass, pilfered second and crossed the plate when Joe Ranker lined a single to right field.

Salisbury forged ahead again in the see-saw affair with a run in the 8th when Dick Leichty banged a single to center, McAllister walked after Adkins struck out and Mike Corbett clouted a two-bagger to center. Powelson then replaced Sloan on the hillock and retired the side by whiffing Pusey and Hoch.

Reynolds Comes Through

Long beat out an infield hit to open the 9th for the Allegany countians, moved to third when Ranker got two bases on an error by the shortstop and Roland Hamilton beat out a bunt to load the bases. Then Howard Reynolds delivered a single to right that plated Long and tied the score at 5-5.

Powelson set up the winning run in the tenth when he whacked a double down the third base line into left field. Bill Norris walked and Cox sacrificed both runners. Long was given an intentional pass to fill the bases. Unable to locate the plate Grover Adkins also walked Ranker, forcing in the deciding run.

Winners Get 10 Hits

Fort Cumberland outhit Salisbury, 10-6, and three of the safeties were credited to Long while Hamilton got a pair of bingles. Dick Leichty accounted for two of Salisbury's hits.

Sloan whiffed seven to give Cumberland pitchers a total of 12 victims while Green and Adkins struck out 14. Sloan gave up six walks and Green and Adkins issued seven free tickets.

Essex Post of Baltimore County, notched his 10th win in 13 starts, by downing John Latimer Post, of Takoma Park, in the second game on the opening day's program by the score of 14-5.

Play Essex Post Today

Essex Post will play Fort Cumberland Post in a second round game today at 1 p.m. At 10 a.m., Takoma Park (14-4) will play Salisbury. A team must lose two games to be eliminated from the 4-day tournament which ends on Sunday afternoon.

Bosox Defeat Chicago, 7-4

Clinton, Bressoud Pace Victors At Bat

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox capitalized on three tained hits and three legitimate singles to score five runs in the second inning Thursday to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 7-4.

Lou Clinton and Eddie Bressoud had three singles each to pace the Red Sox' 12-hit attack on six White Sox pitchers.

Clinton also had three hits in Bill Monbouquette's 1-0 no-hit victory over the White Sox Wednesday night and raised his average to .306.

Louis Aparicio established a personal career record for home runs in a season when he slugged his 7th in the fifth inning, and Al Smith hit his 12th homer with a man on for the White Sox.

Don Schwall picked up the victory, his fifth in 16 decisions, although he needed relief help from Dick Radatz in the sixth. Ray Herbert was the loser.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 150 At Pea Ridge, "one of the two West Point-trained generals walked clear around the other, so that in the end the Confederates, facing south, stood as if they were defending Missouri and Iowa, while the Union troops stood as if defending Arkansas and Louisiana. Each general was sitting on the supply line of the other and, if beaten, had no way to retreat," Otto Eisenschiml points out in "The Hidden Face of the Civil War" (Bobbs-Merrill).

That was one of a succession of glaring military errors the spring of 1862. Generals who had been brought up to regard Napoleon as the greatest of soldiers were making Napoleon's mistakes.

The standard text at West Point in the decade before the war was "Rifle and Light Infantry Tactics," which Lt. Col. William J. Hardee had adapted from French teachings. Volunteer officers in 1861 and 1862 on both sides boned over it. A new manual on muskets, rifles and carbines adopted for the Union forces in 1862 [see right] also was from French sources. Incidentally, the Union Army continued to favor the French Napoleon, a smoothbore, muzzle-loading howitzer, as its basic artillery piece, while rifled, breech-loading cannon were available.

Heedless of improvement in weapons and ammunition, generals made their men more vulnerable targets by bringing them into action in Napoleonic close order, massed, instead of in tactical deployment.

Hardee had resigned as commandant of cadets at West Point in 1861 to go over to the Rebels, and rose to lieutenant general. He departed from the book tactically and won high praise for his leadership. Joseph E. Johnston spoke of the "skill and vigor that Hardee never failed to exhibit in battle."

Robert E. Lee thought Jefferson Davis sealed the doom of Atlanta by not replacing Johnston with Hardee instead of Hood.

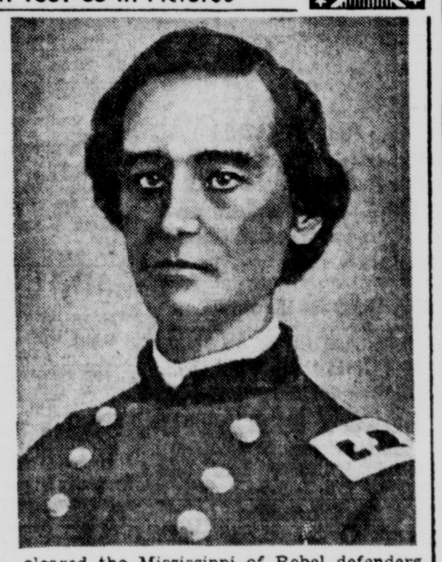
CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 151 A man can be a born soldier. Schuyler Hamilton, who engineered the tactic—cutting a canal—that enabled John Pope to by-pass Island No. 10 and effect the fall of the Confederate defensive position at New Madrid on the Mississippi, could have inherited military brilliance. He was the great-grandson of Maj. Gen. Philip Schuyler, able division commander for George Washington, and he was the grandson of Alexander Hamilton, who also earned the rank of major general under Washington in the War of Independence.



Four uncles of Schuyler Hamilton on his father's side had military experience before they made law their full time profession. (Alexander Hamilton had six sons, including Philip, who was mortally wounded in a duel three years before his father suffered the same fate at the same spot in a duel with Vice President Aaron Burr.) One of the uncles was with the Duke of Wellington's army in Portugal before becoming a U. S. Army officer.

Schuyler Hamilton's father was John, fourth son of Alexander. Schuyler was graduated from West Point, won honors in the Mexican War, and was aide-de-camp to the commanding general of the U. S. Army, Winfield Scott, before he retired from the service to practice as civil engineer. However, when Lincoln called for volunteers in 1861, Schuyler Hamilton did not wait for a commission. He enlisted as a private in the 7th New York Regiment and went off with it to Washington and Bull Run.

He was taken out of the ranks soon, to be a staff officer for Ben Butler, then for Henry Halleck. He had advanced to brigadier general when sent by Halleck with Pope's thrust down the Mississippi in April 1862, which cleared the Mississippi of Rebel defenders as far down as Fort Pillow.

Hamilton was rewarded with promotion to major general in September 1862, a few months before malaria, contracted in the Corinth siege, complicated by old Mexican War wounds, broke down his health. He retired from active duty in 1863 and returned to civilian engineering work. After the war Hamilton [shown above as a brigadier in 1862] was a hydrographic engineer in the enlargement of New York City's harbor and dock facilities.

Frostburg Man Hurt In Crash

A 65-year-old Frostburg man was taken to Miners Hospital shortly before noon yesterday after he was injured in a pickup truck-bus collision at the entrance of the LaVale Plaza Shopping Center.

Elmer D. Ward, 65, of 26 East College Avenue, was given X-ray examinations and treated for a laceration of the right knee, a hospital spokesman said.

Ward reportedly was operating his truck west on U.S. Route 40 toward Frostburg. A People's Transit bus, according to reports, was pulling out from the shopping center parking lot onto the highway when the collision occurred about 11:20 a. m.

Ward was taken to the hospital in a Maryland State Police ambulance.

To Get 'Souvenirs'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Diplomats will have a chance to collect colorful new souvenirs of New York starting next Monday.

The souvenirs are shiny green "notices of violation" which will be placed on illegally parked cars of the diplomatic corps. They look quite similar to the tickets that signify a $15 fine for the ordinary motorist. But the diplomats, immune from prosecution, get off with a stern lecture.

Technicians Praised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Thursday commended a group of young American Indians and Eskimos who will man the ballistic missile early warning system in remote areas of Alaska.

The Alaskans have just completed 18 months of training as electrical engineers under the sponsorship of the RCA Institute in New York and the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Diplomats will have a chance to collect colorful new souvenirs of New York starting next Monday.

The souvenirs are shiny green "notices of violation" which will be placed on illegally parked cars of the diplomatic corps. They look quite similar to the tickets that signify a $15 fine for the ordinary motorist. But the diplomats, immune from prosecution, get off with a stern lecture.

Safety Program Is Planned For Street Dept.

Lynn Walker To Be Instructor

Plans for a safety program in the Department of Streets and Public Safety have been announced to department heads by Commissioner Lucile Roeder.

The meetings will begin Monday, August 13, and will continue on the second Monday of each month, according to notices posted on bulletin boards.

Lynn Walker, inspector for the Department of Labor and Industry of the State of Maryland, will be the instructor for the sessions.

Mrs. Roeder said the first session will be held August 13 at 7 a.m. at the Street Department warehouse on Valley Street for workers in the Street and Sewer departments.

A similar meeting will be held at 8 a.m. for workers in the Flood Maintenance unit and for the staff of the Sewage Treatment Plant.

The program is being offered, Mrs. Roeder said, in the interest of the safety and well being of all workers in the department and their families.

She told workers she was happy to report that the supervisory staff of the department was 100 per cent behind the project.

In an appeal for cooperation, she said the only way the program can be meaningful is "for all of us to work together as we did previously, on this cause of safety."

Shortly after the new Mayor and Council was organized, Mrs. Roeder secured permission from Mrs. Robert B. Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry, for the services of Mr. Walker.

Young Schwartz, who will be a senior at Allegany High School next month, was one of the group of 27 Cumberlanders who made the month-long trip to the West Coast in three station wagons. There were 21 students in the group and six adult leaders.

The speaker offered a day-to-day account of the trip which took the "pioneers" to a number of state and national parks across the country.

Some 17 boys who have been playing with the Kiwanis team in the Hot Stove Baseball League were special guests of the club. They were introduced by Albert J. "Bert" Lawler, the team manager. With their victory last night, the Kiwanians clinched the league championship.

Second Group Of Campers Leaves For Seattle Fair

The second contingent of Cumberland campers headed for Seattle early yesterday in two midget buses piled high with luggage and bedrolls.

Twelve youngsters and four driver-counselors began assembling in front of the Court House at about 5:30 a. m. for the 8,000-mile trip that will take them to the World's Fair in Seattle and back across the country by a different route. A similar group completed the trip last week.

All members of the party wore identifying white jackets, to which their mothers were busy sewing patches with the legend "Cumberland Campers — Seattle" just before the buses pulled out.

Victor McKay, Latin teacher at Allegany High School who is tour director, climbed atop the buses to lash tarpaulins over the luggage while Thomas and James Conlon of Conlon Travel Agency checked other last-minute details.

Mr. McKay gathered the campers and parents on the sidewalk and asked one of the girls to lead the Lord's Prayer.

Six girls boarded the blue and white bus (christened the William O. Douglas) driven by Mr. McKay and Miss Evelyn Bright, Allegany High librarian. Six boys piled into the white and red "Theodore Roosevelt" with Misses Sheila Downey and Nancy Sitter as drivers.

Barbers' Union President Lauds Driscoll

A tribute to the late Fred B. Driscoll of Cumberland, Republican chairman of the Allegany County delegation to the House of Delegates, appears in the August Journal of the Journeyman Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists and Proprietors' International Union of America.

Mr. Driscoll, who was Washington legislative representative for the international union and author of a regular column in the Journal, died of a heart attack July 9 while working for the union.

"His death was . . . a personal shock and a tragic blow to the international as well," wrote W. C. Birthright, general president-secretary-treasurer of the international.

"He combined the qualities of a gentleman and a legislative expert with a devotion to his union and its members. His was a job well done," the general president said.

The article notes that Mr. Driscoll was first president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Barbers' Association, later served as secretary-treasurer, and still later in a second term as president. He was secretary-treasurer of Local 314 in Cumberland for 20 years before his appointment to his post with the international. He had served in the House of Delegates since 1951.

Mr. Birthright's article concludes by saying, "No greater tribute could be paid than that Fred B. Driscoll was highly respected and admired by all members of the AFL-CIO legislative department. A letter from the director of that department, Andrew J. Biemiller, states: 'He was a great credit to your organization and the entire labor movement, always willing to cooperate in every way possible. He never shirked the hardest task.'"

Boys Fined For Having Beer Party

Seven local youths yesterday were fined $10 each in Trial Magistrate Court by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett as a result of an early-morning beer party in the Mason Road section near the Union Grove Campgrounds.

A 17-year-old youth who also was involved was found guilty of being a delinquent minor and was given a suspended sentence in the Maryland Training School for Boys by Magistrate Barnett.

The youths were arrested early yesterday morning by Tfc. George C. Wachter of the State Police on a complaint from a Mason Road resident who said the boys were causing a disturbance on his property about 2 a. m.

All of the youths, who ranged in age from 18 to 20, pleaded guilty to the charges of being drunk and creating a disturbance.

The youths testified they had been drinking beer in nearby West Virginia and had purchased a case of beer which they brought back to the Mason Road section.

Tfc. Wachter said he found a number of beer bottles strewn along the highway and in the field where the boys had been.

Magistrate Barnett pointed out the seriousness of the charge and said the youths also must face the fact that their names now are entered on the criminal docket in Trial Magistrate Court.

ARA Impressed With Tourist Potential

W.Va. Counties May Still Get Grant

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A State Department of Commerce official said Thursday that a representative of the Area Redevelopment Administration was greatly impressed with the tourist potential of southeastern West Virginia.

Robert Bowers, travel director of the commerce department, and George Lavelle, Appalachian coordinator of the ARA, toured the Pendleton - Pocahontas County to see what could be done with a $1.47 million grant that was to go toward construction of a tourist center at Sugar Grove.

The ARA decided to hold the money in abeyance after the Navy halted plans to build a giant radio - telescope at Sugar Grove.

Bowers said Lavelle seemed "real excited" by the area's tourist attractions including the Cass railroad and the radio-telescope built at Green Bank by the National Science Foundation.

Bowers related that Lavelle said the ARA would be "highly receptive" to any projects in the area.

Lavelle told Bowers he felt the area had "as much or more to offer as far as tourist potential is concerned than any area in the Eastern United States."

A tribute to the late Fred B. Driscoll of Cumberland, Republican chairman of the Allegany County delegation to the House of Delegates, appears in the August Journal of the Journeyman Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists and Proprietors' International Union of America.

Mr. Driscoll, who was Washington legislative representative for the international union and author of a regular column in the Journal, died of a heart attack July 9 while working for the union.

"His death was . . . a personal shock and a tragic blow to the international as well," wrote W. C. Birthright, general president-secretary-treasurer of the international.

"He combined the qualities of a gentleman and a legislative expert with a devotion to his union and its members. His was a job well done," the general president said.

The article notes that Mr. Driscoll was first president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Barbers' Association, later served as secretary-treasurer, and still later in a second term as president. He was secretary-treasurer of Local 314 in Cumberland for 20 years before his appointment to his post with the international. He had served in the House of Delegates since 1951.

Mr. Birthright's article concludes by saying, "No greater tribute could be paid than that Fred B. Driscoll was highly respected and admired by all members of the AFL-CIO legislative department. ARA Impressed With Tourist Potential

W.Va. Counties May Still Get Grant

Bowers related that Lavelle said the ARA would be "highly receptive" to any projects in the area.
